Huron High School will open on Sept. 6 for teachers and administrators. The first day for students will be Sept. 7 from 8 a.m.-1:10 p.m.

Lunch service shall be available on the first day of school for students. Students should report to their respective homerooms according to the information sheets posted around the school.

Locker assignments will remain the same as last year except for incoming freshmen whose assignments have been determined and will be listed on their respective class schedules.

Only students of junior or senior standing will be permitted to drive automobiles to school. A 50 cent registration fee is required for parking in the student parking lot. Student drivers are requested not to drive for the first week to enable the administration to determine each student's need to drive onto school property.

St. Aloysius Church in Romulus is sponsoring its annual Polka Festival on Labor Day week, Sept. 2 through Sept. 5. Festival hours are 6 p.m. to midnight Friday and noon to midnight on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Six bands will perform at the festivities, which include rides for children, Las Vegas gambling, and a $10,000 cash raffle. For further information, telephone Tony Tarkowski at 482-4972. The church is located on the corner of Neville and Ozga Road.

"I wouldn't want to do it for a living," said Romulus resident John Engebretsen, who happens to be a financial accountant for General Motors. What Engebretsen was alluding to was "milking a cow."

Engebretsen, one of 40 spectators chosen to participate in the Michigan State Fair Milking Contest, learned a lot from the experience, he said.

Although a few of the contestants were from dairy farms or raised milking goats, the majority were "city born and raised."

To allow our employees to celebrate the Labor Day Holidays with their friends and families, the offices of The Associated Newspapers in Belleville and in Wayne will be closed on Monday, Sept. 5.

Our offices will reopen for business 8 a.m., Tues., Sept. 6.

Because deadlines for the Sept. 7 issue have been moved up for editorial and advertising copy, we urge those submitting items or ads for consideration to get them to our staff at the earliest possible time.

DR. WILLIAM BEDELL

Romulus school supt. Bedell, Dr. LeCesne are hospitalized

Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of the Romulus Community School District, was hospitalized last week after complaining of an excruciating back pain.

Bedell, who has headed the district's public schools for the past nine years, was taken to Annapolis Hospital by ambulance after complaining about the pain. He had previously been treated for an ailment as an "out patient."

"The pain got worse," Dr. Bedell said by telephone yesterday, "so I decided to call an ambulance and check into the hospital. I feel well now and I should be back to work on Wednesday."

Also hospitalized at the hospital is Dr. Terrel LeCesne, who is assistant superintendent for Administrative Services for the Romulus (See EDUCATORS Page 3)

DR. TERREL LECESNE

Textbook policy is tabled for one year

A textbook policy, which would have required each high school student to deposit $25, was tabled for lack of consensus at a school board meeting last week.

Some board members felt the charge, to be paid at the beginning of each school year and refunded the following June, would be an undue hardship.

Supt. William Bedell indicated to the Board that the District loses thousands of dollars each year, largely due to students who move out of the district during the academic year, failing to return the books.

School dropouts on the high school level, about 7 to 9 percent in Romulus, also contribute to the loss since the students do not return the books.

The total value of a set of books is $60 to $75.

Tabling the measure in effect holds off such a policy until the following year. The motion to table was unanimous.

In other business, the Board approved the purchase of $5,000 worth of cafeteria chairs, from funds provided from last year's profitable lunch program, to create a "senior's only" lunchroom.

The purpose of the room, to be located in a former activities room adjacent to the main cafeteria, is to provide speed in serving lunches and to give seniors their own lunchroom which would be their own responsibility.

The lunch program, managed by the Greyhound Food Management Company, made a profit for the school of $60,000. The profit goes into the school's general fund.

In other matters, the Board voted to seal coat, put down a layer of asphalt, in three areas: the bus parking lot, the high school running track located at Romulus Junior High, and various patches at the high school parking lot.

The low bid, by Advance Sealing and Paving Company, was $11,529. It was approved unanimously.

Judging the plants

It's become an annual tradition to stage flower contests for the residents at the Romulus Towers who grow plants on their apartment balconies. This year the seniors invited Mayor William Oakley and businessman Bill Simonds, owner of Bilmar's Supermarket, to judge the contest. After looking over the situation and the flowers, the two prominent Romulus citizens gave first place and the $50 prize to Edna Walson, second place and $25 to Ivah Niemi and third place and $15 to Amy Robertson. Honorable mention consideration went to Thelma Harrison and Pat Etler. In the picture at the left, Senior Towers manager Jean Smith, Oakley and Simonds discuss the plants and in the picture at the right, the winners: Walson (from left, front row), Niemi and Robertson are presented their prizes from Smith (from left), Simonds and Mayor Oakley.

Safety director post created

Romulus police, fire to be combined department

By JERRY DesHARNAIS
Special ANP Writer

An ordinance creating a Department of Public Safety was unanimously adopted by Romulus City Council last week.

The Department, putting the existing departments of police and fire under the aegis of a single director, will put all of the structure of law and order and fire prevention under a single authority. The director would be appointed by the mayor.

Administratively, the director will prescribe rules of conduct for the police and fire departments.

The director will also designate, with the approval of the mayor, the authority, titles, and ranks of command personnel within the Department of Public Safety, Police Department, and Fire Department.

No indication was made at the meeting how many personnel would be within the Department of Public Safety itself.

In other business, a bid of $159,765 for street repair in Romulus was approved 7-0.

The contract was awarded to Century Cement Company.

The bid was substantially below the $500,000 approved loan which Romulus has received from the state for the street repair project.

Wade, Trim & Associates, Inc., a consulting engineering firm, noted that the city repair program has identified locations where severe pavement problems exist. The firm's recommendation is that areas with less severe pavement problems also be included in the repair program, not to exceed $500,000.

In other action, the Council approved the recommendation of Fire Chief James Haislip to advertise the sale of two firetrucks, both in need of much repair.

A bid for a heating/air conditioning system repair job for City Hall was also approved at the meeting. A contract to Controlled Temperature Inc. for $32,012 was voted 7-0.

In other matters, the Romulus

Central Business District Association presented to the city a public address system to be used by the community. The system features 8 speakers and a Bogan 125C amplifier.

Olin W. Simonds, Jr., President of the organization, made the announcement at the Council meeting.

The system is intended for the use of non-profit clubs and organizations. A deposit of $250 will be required as deposit for its use. Simonds said it was the first presentation of this nature by his group and hopefully in the future further contributions to the city will be made.

In other action, the Council voted approval that a no-fee permit be issued to the Wayne Chapter #120 Disabled American Veterans for the purpose of distributing blue Forget-Me-Not flowers for their annual fund raising drive scheduled for September 12 through 17.

Proceeds of sale of the flowers will go to entertainment of shut-in veterans at the Allen Park Medical Center, child welfare, and helping veterans during a temporary crisis.

The Council also approved the appointment of two persons to the Board of Canvassers: Judith Frederick and Patricia Lenderman. Their terms expire on December 31, 1985.

In an historical note, general amusement by the Council greeted a remark following the meeting that perhaps a new record of brevity had been established that evening.

The session lasted 35 minutes. All votes were unanimous.

Police seek aid in locating women

HELEN BAZZETTA

Police and relatives of a 39-year-old Warren woman who has been missing since August 1 are now extending their search throughout Michigan.

Helen Bazzetta (formerly Helen Copeland) mysteriously disappeared in the middle of the afternoon after playing a round of golf and shopping at several stores near her home.

Alarmed relatives and friends organized searches of Macomb and Oakland Counties on successive weekends following her disappearance.

The second of these searches attracted 1000 volunteers and covered a more than 125-square-mile area.

Despite televised appeals by her family for information and the distribution of more than 15,000 pictures and flyers, police have been unable to locate her or substantiate any clues to her whereabouts.

Mrs. Bazzetta's locked car was found on the morning after her disappearance in the parking lot of the Oakland Mall, a shopping center about 10 miles from her home.

Helen Bazzetta is 5-foot-6-inches tall, weighs approximately 150 pounds, and was last seen wearing a green-and-yellow daisy print golf dress. She has frosted blond hair and blue eyes.

Anyone who has seen Mrs. Bazzetta or has any information regarding her whereabouts is asked to call their local or state police immediately.

Working off jail term

Convicted of misdemeanors, offenders work off their sentences on weekend projects in Belleville. Above Park Gregory (right), chairman of the Belleville Park Commission, works beside two young offenders. Right, Officer Gene Taylor checks up on the workers.

Judge's decree:

Community work or jail sentences, which do you prefer?

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

Sweat glistening on his back, Steven, age 28, picked up the branches he'd just chopped and stacked them in a neat pile in Horizon Park. Nearby, another young worker, Neil, listened patiently while Park Gregory, chairman of the Belleville Park Commission, gave him instructions on weeding.

It was a typical Saturday morning for Gregory, who devotes much of his spare time to park improvement projects.

It was not so typical for his two assistants. Convicted of misdemeanors, the two chose to serve their brief sentences not in jail but in a work release program supervised by the Belleville Police Department.

"They've all been real good workers," says Gregory, who's worked with many program participants. "I haven't had problems with any of them."

Gregory recalls one man, "a documentary filmmaker who had produced films around the world. He was here for drunk driving. He said he couldn't believe he'd end up here — but he took it in stride. His only problem was that I slowed him down by talking too much."

Individuals "doing their time" in the city's parks and streets were sentenced for a range of non-violent offenses, says Belleville Police Chief Willard Dockter.

"Shoplifting, drunk driving, traffic violations — those are the common things," explains Dockter. There was also, he recalls, the case of the man shooting ducks out of season in northern Michigan. "They let him serve the sentence here, so he wouldn't have to drive so far from home to work."

Offenders are sentenced at the 34th District Court in Romulus. A typical sentence is five days (either in jail or in the program) but there are exceptions. "One woman has 28 days to work off," says Officer Gene Taylor. "She comes in weekdays, cleaning township bathrooms, doing different jobs."

Most participants are required to work on Saturdays, after completing their regular jobs, Taylor notes.

Workers are supervised by a police or reserves officer. "We keep tabs on people, but we don't stand over anyone with a whip," Taylor states. "We've never had anyone walk off the program. People know they're lucky to be here."

Besides working in the parks, offenders wash police cars; pick trash off the road; work in the animal shelter. "One time," Taylor says with a chuckle, "several workers went to the Monroe County Jail to pick up some parts. They took hinges off the doors. I guess they figured tearing apart a jail beats being in it."

Both Steven and Neil would be quick to agree — and they've had first-hand experience. Steven, who hauls empty soft drink bottles for a living, spent 90 days in jail for driving with a suspended license.

"I made it, but jail's no fun," he says simply. "I like this (the work release program) better."

Working his second of three Saturdays on the program, (again for driving with a suspended license) Steven explains that his problems with the law started when he ignored a traffic ticket years ago.

"I did a lot of crazy things when I was young," he says sheepishly. "Not any more."

Neil spend only six hours in jail, but he recalls the experience as "the longest time in my life. You just sat there, knowing you were locked up."

Wearing a T-shirt that reads "I love Champagne, Cadillacs, and Cash," Neil's not sure whether he has three days to ten to serve (for traffic violations). "I got to find out," he says.

It's his first morning on the program, and the Detroit factory worker owes up to being nervous.

"He's (the officer) been nice to me, but I feel out of place here, being black," he says.

Because he was nervous, he asked a friend to stay in Belleville all day. "She's just sitting in a van by the police station, waiting for me. She said she doesn't want to leave me alone, and I said I didn't want to be left alone."

When they signed in at the police station at 9 a.m., both men were tired, having put in overtime at their regular jobs during the week. Both say they like working outdoors though "it would be nicer if it wasn't so hot," Steven said.

Forbidden to drive, the two had to find rides from their homes, more than an hour away. "Some people say they'll have trouble getting here, but since the alternative is jail, they find a way," said Officer Taylor. He recalled on offender, sentenced for driving with a revoked license, who nonetheless drove to the police station. "We put a stop to that pretty quick."

There have been surprisingly few problems in the three years

Fire hits Quirk School

A fire swept through a classroom at Quirk Elementary School Saturday night, causing minor damage to windows, curtains and the ceiling, according to Van Buren School Superintendent Elvin Peets.

"The damage is minor," Peets said, adding the room should be ready for use again in a few weeks.

Firefighters were summoned to the scene, when a passerby saw flames coming from the window of the room, located on the northeastern corner of the building. The team was able to put the blaze out in a few minutes, a spokesman for the fire department said.

Officials are still investigating the cause of the fire which destroyed several windows, burned curtains, and scorched the ceiling.

The damaged room is used only for senior citizens activities, and repairs should not cause scheduling problems, the superintendent said.

'Nomads' con area residents

"Nomads," a name applied to people who go through neighborhoods bilking people and stealing from their homes, have been at work for their second summer in Huron Township.

This summer the Nomads have worked their con on five separate Huron residents.

Their technique is basically this:

A man and his teenage son approach a homeowner, offering home improvement work for a bargain price.

The homeowner agrees and they start work immediately.

During the course of the work, one may ask to enter the home for a glass of water or to use the bathroom.

At that point, money or valuables are taken from the home.

The Nomads are nondescript in attire, swarthy and wearing a moustache.

Nomads are usually "fast talkers" and seem very pleasant.

"They may seem like nice people in conversation," said Huron Police Sgt. John Maier, "but they have only one objective — to rob people."

Maier suggests caution when dealing with anyone who approaches residents at their home with this approach. If the resident has a strong suspicion that con men are at work, they should contact the police department and give a complete description of the people and their vehicle.

Maier indicated that in addition to the 5 reported complaints, robbed of amounts from $5 to $1000, others have called police but did not file a complaint because of embarrassment at having been conned.

Quite typically, the cons drive in pickup trucks with out-state license plates.

"They are real smooth talkers," said Maier. "That's the trick of their trade. Bad check men are the same way."

Huron plans key interviews

Huron Township Board discussed the schedule of interviews of candidates for the position of legal environmental consul for the community.

Members of the Huron Valley Citizens Association presented the board with a list of nine attorneys who they researched and recommend to the Board.

This number is in addition to the three candidates the board suggested.

A day of interview will be scheduled in the near future.

A panel composed of members of the administration and the anti-landfill group will conduct the interviews to determine the candidate for the vital consul needed in the current battle against landfills, solid waste and toxic.

In another landfill matter, Clerk Mary Lou Carey advised the Board that the Michigan Township Association (MTA) has appointed a special committee of 5 members from the Board of Directors of MTA to correlate all the landfill problems in Michigan Townships.

Carey was appointed chairman of the committee and the first meeting, last Monday, dealt with proposed amendments to Publi Act 641, which would give local authorities some voice on where landfills will be located, and some powers of negotiation.

In another item, a response by the Township to a toxic waste land developer, Thomas Handyside of Environmental Management Systems, Inc., was read and approved unanimously by the Board.

The letter in effect told Handyside that the Board would be willing to meet with officials of his company but only if they could review his documents and studies for the Will Carleton Drive site prior to the meeting.

It would seem that such an eventuality is unlikely.

In other business, the Board passed a resolution supporting the Natural Gas Consumer Relief Act, currently pending in federal house and senate committees.

The resolution calls for a ceiling on gas prices, which have doubled in the last six years.

In another item, a letter was received by the Board from the attorney of Richard Slater, owner of the Flea Market in New Boston, requesting a meeting.

The attorney, Francis Burger, requests discussion on what is felt are unconstitutional aspects of the recent ordinance passed by the Township governing the Flea Market.

The Board authorized Supervisor A.J. Haener, the administrative staff, and the Township attorney to meet with Burger and his client.

Seniors picnic in the shade

The music was excellent. The food delicious, and the seniors all wore smiles.

It was the 10th annual Romulus Senior Citizens' picnic staged last Tuesday in blistering heat.

But few noticed the 90-plus temperatures. It was a time to get together, chitchat and discuss the present and past with friends.

And there was the shade of trees, thanks to Beverly McAnally and the school board.

The food was provided by State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-Romulus) and State Senator William Faust (D-Westland) whose district includes Romulus.

"I believe I can say that everyone had an excellent time," said McAnally, who welcomed guests on behalf of Rep. Mahalak. "It's something our seniors look forward to."

Mrs. McAnally is a mayoral candidate and will challenge incumbent William Oakley in the November General Election. Because there are only two candidates for the mayor's job, there will be no primary. However, the city will hold primaries for the City Clerk, City Treasurer's Offices as well as for City Council.

Mrs. McAnally explained "that last year the picnic for the seniors was held in the sun on the senior citizens' parking lot.

"However, this year we were able to utilize school property," she continued. "While sitting in the hot sun last year and glancing over to the trees on the school property I decided to ask Dan Bales, president of the School Board, if it would be possible for us to use the land owned by the schools.

"There are trees on that property and they provide excellent shade. He (Bales) came back to us with board approval, and we're really happy about it," McAnally concluded.

Romulus band marches in parade

The Romulus Bi-Centennial Band, which includes students from the 4th through 9th grades in the district, marched in the Michigan State Fair Grand Opening parade Friday in downtown Detroit.

Dick Kruse, Romulus Schools Music Department chairman and band director at Romulus Junior High, led the band in its march from Woodward and I-75 down to the Renaissance Center, a distance of about a mile.

About 15 bands marched in the parade to kick off the Fair. Some 130 units, including floats and marching groups constituted the parade.

This concludes the 8th summer season for the Bi-Centennial Band. Kruse initiated and directs the summer band on a voluntary basis, without salary.

Money for the music and transportation is fund-raised by the students through candy bar sales.

The band, numbering a total of 70 students, marched in Romulus subdivisions and the city of Belleville and Romulus this summer.

Huron officials attend workshop

Five Huron Township officials and Huron Valley Citizens Association members attended a 2-day Wildlife Hazards to Aircraft Workshop.

Airport safety was the main theme of the conference, touching on the effects of landfills located too close to airports.

The conference, with 70 in attendance, was held at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Speakers from the FAA, the Fish and Wildlife Service, and several airport managers spoke of the hazards to aircraft from bird strikes attracted by landfills.

Several airplane crashes caused by bird strikes were cited at the workshop.

Attending the conference Aug. 23, 24 were Supervisor A.J. Haener, Clerk Mary Lou Carey, Treasurer Chris Gamber and trustees John Puskar and Gary Bates.

Fred Abar, president of the Huron Valley Citizens Association, and Linda Clark, a member of the group's Board, also attended.

Educators hospitalized

Schools. Dr. LeCesne was rushed to the hospital last week when he complained about chest pains and "difficulty breathing."

Dr. LeCesne said that doctors informed him that he may be released from the hospital on Wednesday, (Aug. 31).

"I feel fine," Dr. LeCesne said by telephone yesterday. "I hope to be back at my desk the day after Labor Day if the doctors will permit me."

Students are scheduled to report to their classrooms Wed., Sept. 6 and, although the teachers in the school district do not have a contract, no problems are foreseen to prevent school doors from opening, school officials said.

It's "chow time" and seniors gather around the table to enjoy a wide variety of food and desserts.

Living it up and dancing with the seniors is city councilman John Lewkowicz who was one of many local dignitaries who helped organize the senior citizens' inaugural picnic. Now in its 10th year, the picnic is one of the most welcomed events of the summer season.

The 10th annual senior citizens picnic was labeled a success, and one big reason was the music provided by this band of volunteer seniors.

It won't be long now...while construction continues to re-route traffic from Wayne Road near Michigan Avenue in Wayne while the bridge work is underway, reports indicate the project is right on target and moving along as planned. The bridge is slated to re-open to traffic Nov. 15.

Local teen crowned state's camper queen

Dawn Twydel of Belleville won the National Campers and Hikers Association (NCHA) Michigan Teen Queen Contest last May and will be crowned Sept. 17 at Rockwood.

The National Campers and Hikers Association is the largest non-profit family camping organization in the world with over 40,000 families from the U.S., Canada, Europe and Japan. NCHA's motto of "The Friendliest People In The World" best describe this fun-loving group of family campers.

Dawn is a junior at Belleville High School. She likes camping, bike riding, hiking, talking on the phone, and plans to go on to college when she completes high school. Dawn was in Girl Scouts for 10 years, and was honored for completing all the badges.

Dawn and her parents, Ken and Pat Twydel, have been members of NCHA since 1972, and belong to the Coffee N' Campfires Chapter. Dawn is presently serving as President of the Coffee N' Campfires Teen Chapter. She also holds the position of State Teen Editor for the Michigan State Association newspaper, "The Michigander."

Dawn enjoys doing conservation and wildlife projects. She has made bird feeders, worked on various park beautification projects, water conservation and air pollution projects. NCHA sponsors programs involving conservation, disaster training, and hiking or being self propelled. Jan DeCabooter, Michigan State NCHA Director said that, "if your interest lie in some other areas that's fine too because NCHA has something for everyone."

Mrs. DeCabooter went on to report that Michigan NCHA has the largest membership of any State or Province in NCHA and that Michigan is fast approaching the 4,000 mark in families belonging to the national organization.

Dawn will be competing against girls from every state and Province of Canada for the International Teen Queen Title of NCHA. The contest will be held at Bowling Green, Kentucky in July of next year. Bowling Green, Kentucky will be the site of the 24th annual Campvention for the organization. Michigan has never had a winner.

Planning Commission reviews farmer's 'pond' plan

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

The case of the farmer who wants to construct a five acre irrigation pond (and the township trustees who aren't sure they want him to have it) appears headed, for the second time, to the Sumpter Township Planning Commission.

At the August 23 board meeting, trustees voted 3-1 to let the planning commission take another look at Kenneth Summers' plans to build the pond on his Judd Road property. Summers says he needs the pond to water 40 head of cattle and to raise crops.

The commission approved Summers' plans on June 1. But a month later, trustees voted 3-2 to deny Summers two "special exception permits" (to township pond construction and sand removal ordinances) that would have allowed him to proceed with his plans.

Trustees objected both the size of the pond (five acres of water in a ten acre site) and to the proposed removal of 180,000 yards of sand.

Summers, who at a previous meeting had presented the board with petitions in support of his plan, asked Jim Reeves, township supervisor, what could guarantee his plans receiving a speedy hearing from the commission.

"Contact the chairman (of the Planning Commission) and see if you can be expedited," Reeves replied.

Treasurer Clarence Hoffman cast the lone vote against the proposal which, Reeves said, had been suggested by Peter Kirchner, chairman of the Planning Commission.

"They're just giving the man the run-around," Hoffman said after the meeting.

Trustees Michael Huziak, Floyd Bevins, and Virgil Humphreys voted "yes." Trustee John Morgan and Clerk Louis Banatol were absent. Reeves didn't vote.

The action may result in a compromise plan between Summers and the board. At a previous meeting, Summers said he was willing to scale down his pond to three acres of water "if that's the only way I can get my plans approved."

Contacted after the meeting, Kirchner said the Planning Commission volunteered to step in because "the board seemed at an impasse. We suggested that they send it (the proposal) back to us so we could determine whether an adjustment in size would be in order."

Summers declined to comment on the board's action.

The Planning Commission had approved Summers' plans (by a 5-1 vote) after he had made changes to conform with the township's flood plan. Summers told the board the changes cost him $1,600 in addition to the $4,000 he spent to consult an engineer.

In the majority of cases, the township board routinely approves the Planning Commission's recommendations, Kirchner acknowledged.

"But our job is to review (census data, special exception permits) and make recommendations... we don't have final say," he pointed out.

The planning commission meets once a month (the next meeting is 8 p.m. Sept. 7.) Appointed by the trustees, eight members serve on the commission.

In an unrelated action, alleged sand removal was also the reason for a temporary restraining order obtained by the township, Attorney Eugene Turnbull, told board members.

The township requested the restraining order after receiving a phone call that an excavation company was removing sand from the property of Sumpter residents Edd and Louisa Snodgrass, Turnbull said.

Judge Irwin Burdick of Wayne County Circuit Court issued the restraining order on August 11, Turnbull said. A show-cause hearing had been scheduled.

The board agreed to ask the Sumpter Zoning Board of Appeals to hold a hearing regarding the J & W Towing & Storage junkyard on Clark Road. Neighboring citizens have filed petitions objecting to the junkyard.

The board also declined to change its policy of granting cemetery lots, despite the objections of township resident Doug Hurd.

Hurd says that several lots belong to his family — not the township — under a previously drawn cemetery map. He told the board, "We got 36 people buried from the top of the hill now. Those lots are mine."

Reeves told Hurd the board would reconsider his request, if he could produce the old map.

The forest belongs to every living creature.

Mary Lou Carey provides some answers

Landfill continues to stir controversy

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
ANP Special Writer

I am talking to Mary Lou Carey who is the Clerk for Huron Township. Mary Lou Carey has been in the spotlight to some extent in recent weeks regarding the matter of the landfills in Huron Township, and has indicated on more than one occasion that her position has not been made clear.

Q. Mary Lou, what is your position regarding landfills in Huron Township?

A. My position is that I don't want any landfill, period. However, it's my understanding that Public Act 641 has taken away all local control of landfills and we don't have the option of whether or not we want a landfill.

Landfills permits are issued through the State of Michigan and the Board of Health and the County Solid Waste Planning Committee.

Therefore, after the last year, we spent over $35,000 trying to keep the landfill out of the community and it's still in limbo. We won't know until after January 1 of 1984 whether the County Solid Waste Planning Committee is going to include a site in Huron Township on a County Plan.

Q. Tell me this. Could you briefly give a sketch of what has happened regarding landfills in Huron?

A. Well, I don't remember the exact time landfills have been (in the works), probably 17-18 months now. We were made aware of someone doing some drilling, test boring on the property at Sibley and I-275 and found out that they were doing the testing to see if the site would contain a solid waste landfill.

Within a couple of weeks after they did their testing, we contacted, not me personally, but other people in the township office, asking questions about the community or whatever.

And finally, Mr. John Layman of the Lyon Development Company (subsidiary of BFI), asked to have an informational meeting at the township board and we called a special meeting, I think it was in May of 1982.

And their engineers and biologists and whatever, geologists, came in and showed all their designs and informed the people that were there of their plans to put in a solid waste landfill at Sibley and 275.

Well, we immediately took steps to contact our attorneys, our engineers, our planning consultants, anyone and everyone who we thought we would need to prevent this from coming into the community.

We then hired a geologist who reviewed their findings (BFI's findings) and we prepared a case to go before the solid waste planning committee at the county level to try to convince them of the impact of a landfill on our community.

And of course everything we said was negative to the landfill. The fact that that landfill site is directly in the flight path of a major runway coming in and going out of Metro Airport and the fact that you can see seagulls flying over that site now with nothing but trees and weeds and when a farmer in that area plows you just see flocks and flocks of seagulls, we jumped on this. You know, "traffic hazard, air traffic hazard."

And so we started looking for some way to convince the FAA, the Wayne County Road Commission, anybody who was involved with that airport, we tried to convince them this was their fight as much as ours.

And I have communications in my files from a biologist from the FAA who did come and speak at one hearing in Lansing before the DNR and pointed out some of the hazards. I have a transcript of that speech he gave, pointing out the traffic hazards that these birds would cause.

We thought we had a real winner in that one.

And then we had a hearing before the Wayne County Solid Waste Committee and I contacted that speaker, Michael Harrison, and asked him if he would come and speak before that committee. That was last fall.

When I contacted Michael Harrison from the FAA and asked him to please come down and testify before the Wayne County Solid Waste Committee to tell them of the problems that a landfill would create directly in that flight path, he was told that he'd been put on the back burner and I started calling some other people in Washington — in Rep. Bill Ford's office, I made a whole lot of phone calls to many, many people and found out that Rep. Dingell had gotten involved.

Now this landfill is not in Rep. Dingell's district but he evidently is good friends with some of the people in the industry and so he had gotten in touch with the FAA, or at least this is the story that I was told, and said that this developer is working on some type of grid system that is going to control birds and seagulls in landfills and that the FAA should just bow out, keep their nose out of this until the tests (with grids) was completed.

And so Michael Harrison was not allowed to come and tell his story.

In the meantime, Mr. Layman or someone from BFI, had gone to Washington, to the FAA, and BFI had put up a check for $250,000 to fund the FAA's part in the study that's being done at Buffalo, N.Y. on the landfill-seagull problem by the Buffalo Airport.

So Michael Harrison did not come to the Solid Waste Planning Committee. I put together a packet of information including his testimony from the Lansing hearing before the DNR.

But Mr. Layman of BFI brought in a Dr. William Gunn from Toronto who is conducting that study and he told the Wayne County Solid Waste Planning Committee that they've all but licked this problem with the seagulls in Buffalo.

Now they asked some questions... how does it get rid of seagulls? I mean they soar up in the air and they've been tracked as much as 30 miles in a day looking for food.

And he explained this wire system which is 40 feet in the air with thin stainless steel wires that the birds can't see. They fly into them. It shocks them or kills them and if it knocks them to the ground. If one seagull sees another dead seagull, they fly away.

Well I think it's a crock of hokey but I'm not an expert. That's what the man said this study was all about and he believes it's going to be successful enough that they can put the site at Sibley and 275, with this wire grid system.

Well I don't believe that everybody on the Wayne County Solid Waste Planning Committee who has the say so about putting the site in was thoroughly convinced. And so, Commissioner Milton Mack made a motion to delay placing this site on the solid waste plan for the county until this study has been completed in Buffalo, N.Y. which is sometime around the first of 1984. And pending the results and the FAA report, that site is still available to BFI and could very well be placed in the Solid Waste plan for the county.

Now, my biggest concern for the development of the community is how a landfill at the intersection of 275 and Sibley Road is going to effect the entire area. It's the only parcel of property zoned for industrial or expressway services, in a community that is serviced by sanitary sewer, water, natural gas, railroad and the freeway exit.

A landfill on that property is certainly not the highest and best use. It would rob our community of any chance of development. Because, if the landfill is on one of those four corners, you're not even going to get a gas station on those others.

And so, that's how I feel about that particular corner. I don't want a landfill, period. But if I'm going to get one shoved down my throat or down the throat of the community and I've been told by experts in their field that every township in Michigan is going to end up with at least one. And if you're going to get it shoved down your throat this is the best company in the country or the world to deal with.

Q. You have given a sketch of at least the history regarding one site, at Sibley, and you have now touched upon the matter which has become controversial. Which is to say you are against this landfill but then you are faced with the reality or the possibility of it in spite of what you feel. How has this developed in terms of your actions and experiences?

A. Number one I'm a realist. I know that emotions are very high on this subject right now. Not just in Huron Township but all over the country. No one wants a landfill. Of any kind. Because all of the landfills that are in the ground now have been operating for years and years with no standards and no controls by the State of Michigan, or the federal government. And it was anybody who had stuff they wanted to get rid of, went and dumped it in a hole and no one ever worried. I guess years ago, of what the result would be to the environment.

And finally when they started having all these problems, and they began coming to light from environmentalists and concerned people, they decided there had to be some control, some regulation.

And so the State Legislature, with assistance of people from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the Department of Health, the industry, environmentalists, got together as a committee and drafted Public Act 641 in 1978 and Public Act 64 in 1979.

In their supposed wisdom, they recognized the fact that with all of the bad publicity that landfills have had, no one is going to accept a landfill without a fight if they have any choice in the matter, and can say "hell no, you're not bringing a landfill in here," but this little man with a truck is just going to drive down the road and dump his garbage someplace else.

That's not realistic. There are a lot of things that nobody wants "in my back yard." In fact, somebody told me that at these public hearings, they've coined a word to describe the people who come to these meetings. They call them "nimby's" — Not In My Back Yard.

So I guess somebody on this committee who drafted these laws, realized that if you gave the control to the local people, everybody would be sitting their garbage out at the curb on Monday morning, expecting it to be trucked somewhere, but "not in my backyard."

So in the act, they took away the local control. They said that construction permits will be issued by the Department of Natural Resources upon the recommendation of the County Board of Health, Engineering and Environmental Health Division, who reviewed the plans and with their geological studies or whatever and if these so-called experts determine that yes this site is a good site for a landfill, they issue a construction permit.

From there it goes to the County Solid Waste Planning Committee which has to draw up, under PA 641, a plan for five years and then it gets extended for more years.

Wayne County and most of the counties in Michigan have been dragging their feet on preparing these plans because someone in their wisdom figures as long as we don't really have a plan they can't put a landfill in.

Now the State and the DNR, I understand, are getting on all of these communities and saying you have to have a solid waste plan at the county. And you better get it done and there is a deadline. I think it's the end of this year. They must have that plan developed and approved by two-thirds of the communities in the county and then submitted to the DNR.

Any county that has not completed their plan and submitted it to the DNR, will have a plan drafted for them by the DNR. And you will have no choice in the matter for ever.

Anyway, I have been to the County Solid Waste Committee meetings for months and months. And this landfill has been a hot subject of discussion.

And at this time, only a flock of seagulls stands between us and that landfill.

So, in April of this year, our Zoning Board of Appeals had a public hearing on the proposed site at 275 and Sibley Road and most of the members of the Township Board were there and probably a couple hundred of interested citizens, all of whom lived in New Boston, or the surrounding area.

Huron Twp. Clerk answers landfill questions

So anyway at that meeting, as in a couple of other ones, Mr. Layman came up to me and said I would like to sit down with members of your Township Boards and try to work out an agreement... I want to work with your community."

So I talked to some people and then I was told: "You're going to get that landfill whether you want it or not."

I don't know of an ace up our sleeve that we can pull. And so I came back and I mentioned to Supervisor A. J. Haener and Associate Supervisor John Chihan that Mr. Layman would like to meet with some people from the township and try to find some kind of amiable solution to his problem. His problem is he wants to build a new landfill in Huron Township, preferably.

My problem is I think Mr. Layman is a nice man and I am glad to see anybody make a living somehow but I don't want a landfill in this community.

At one of our Wayne County Solid Waste Committee meetings, our planning consultant addressed the Committee on the highest and best use of land, touching on all the reasons that a landfill should not be put at Sibley and 275.

And on his map, he indicated two other sites in this community that are large open parcels of land that are near freeway exit ramps that have all the same features that BFI say they are looking for, particularly, expressway ramps and exits so trucks will not have to go through towns or neighborhoods.

So these two spots at South Huron and Carleton were pointed out to the Committee as being more suitable for landfills because there is not a heavy concentration of people... and the community does not have as much invested in those pieces of property as in sanitary sewers. Sanitary sewers are available at Sibley but not at the other two sites.

Well, Mr. Layman, like I said, said he wanted to meet with us. And Mr. Haener, Mr. Chihan and I sat down and talked about it and we thought it was in the best interest of the community to at least listen to what he had to say and look at his operation. Because his operation at Lyon Township is one of the few that is being operated under Public Act 641 that has been constructed since the Act took effect.

And I went out there expecting to see a dump. The kind of dump that everybody remembers when they were a kid, you know they call them "bear feeding stations" up north, where everybody who has something they want to get rid of just threw it in a hole. And it stinks.

And we went out there, I had driven by the site numerous times on 96 and Milford Road, back and forth to Lansing, and all I could see was the mounds of dirt as I drove by on the freeway. I had never gotten off the freeway to look at it before.

When Mr. Haener and I drove up in front of it, I was amazed I guess would be the word. It's landscaped very, very nicely from Milford Road. You cannot tell what it is inside the site. There are blacktop roads going through there. There were a couple of young high school-age boys pulling weeds, picking up anything around, sweeping the driveways. I mean busy keeping the place up.

There were off to one side two dumpsters, a little ramp where the people of the community could dump. If they missed their trash pickup or they were cleaning their attic or garage. They could put it in the dumpster for no charge. They all had an ID card.

We went into the office and sat down and talked with Mr. Layman. And then he took us out into the landfill area. And I thought oh boy, here is where I get the answer to my prayers.

I'm going to see this filthy rat hole and I'm going to say oh no, there is nothing like this coming into Huron Township.

I wish I could have come back and said that. But we drove right down into the hole where they were working, where trucks were dumping. You don't see any garbage. You don't smell any garbage. Because as a truck dumps its load a crusher comes and crushes it and a bulldozer comes right behind it covering it over with a layer of sand or dirt.

He opened the door of a car and

83 buyers take part in 4-H Fair auction

There was a lot of fowl in the air when 83 buyers participated in the recent 1983 4-H Livestock Auction at the Wayne County Fair.

Bill Simonds, owner of Bilmar's Supermarket came through again and heavily supported the 4-H members. The prominent local businessman purchased the Grand Champion chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys, rabbits, goat, lamb, and pig.

As another show of support, upon leaving, Simonds donated his Bilmar Supermarket jacket which was auctioned and purchased by Tony Kopas of Romulus Hardware for $70.

Kopas also supported the livestock sale with his purchase of two lambs, two pigs and a steer.

Other Romulus business establishments and dignitaries supported the 4-H youth program with their purchase of Grade A quality livestock: Rush's Florist, two sheep, pig and ducks; Huron Sod Farm, pig, and one dozen donuts; Youtsey Electric, pig, ducks and chickens; Farmers Grain and Feed, two pigs and a goat; Block Implement, geese, chickens, lamb and one dozen donuts; Romulus Mayor William Oakley, a lamb, and Romulus City Treasurer, Beverly McAnally, a pen of chickens.

A banquet will be held Sept. 16 at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service to thank these buyers for their support at the 1983 livestock auction.

Also, Vasko's Family Restaurant purchased a Grade A, Award winning pig from Carrie Cook of Belleville.

As first time participants in the auction, the restaurant owners plan to feature a pork special on Sept. 12 and 13.

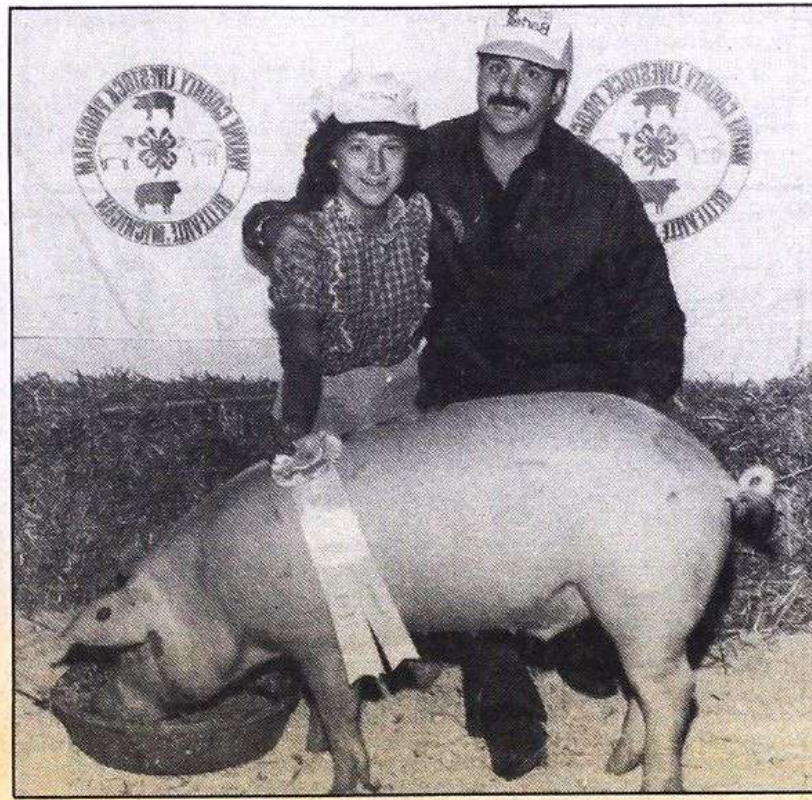

Other Belleville businesses and supporters included previous buyers; Dr. Joseph Bartell of Bartell's Chiropractic Center purchasing one dozen donuts for $35 and two pigs; Garden Fantasy, of 10501 Haggerty Road, a steer, pig, chickens and ducks; Pic and Pay Mini Mart, Haggerty Road in Belleville, a lamb, an additional first time buyer was the Van Buren Fire Department which purchased a pig and pen of chickens.

When you have a winner, it's a good reason to smile. And representatives of the Van Buren Fire Department have ample reason to smile because Mary Ferrell, whom they sponsored at the recent 4-H Fair, came away with a Blue Ribbon for raising a prize-winning pig. The firefighters not only sponsored the Belleville 4-H'er, but they also purchased the livestock at the auction.

Belleville's Carrie Cook came up with the Reserve Grand Champion Lightweight Individual Pig and her efforts were rewarded with a Blue Ribbon. The pig went to Dr. Joseph Bartell of Bartell's Chiropractic Center in Belleville.

Bill Simonds, owner of Bilmar's Supermarket in Romulus, poses with New Boston 4-H'er Cory Simpson (at left) and Tracie Keith, also of New Boston, after purchasing the Grand Champion pen of two turkeys owned by Cory. Simonds has been a prominent figure in helping 4-H'ers and the 4-H program over the years.

said get out and walk around if you want to but I'm not much for walking around in a big sand hole but we did smell around and there was no odor. It was not at all like the dump that I remembered from back in the good ole days. And to say that I was disappointed that I did not have an argument when I came out of that site... because it was not at all what I was expecting to see. The place is very well maintained. The yards around it, the offices, is landscaped cleaner and neater in a lot of yards around here.

I was amazed that a dump could look like that. So I was, needless to say, disappointed that I could no longer say "I don't want a smelly dump in Huron Township." I couldn't say that anymore.

I still don't want a landfill here, but I can't say because it's a smelly dirty hole because I didn't find a smelly dirty hole when I went there.

I think that's probably when the discussion of moving it out of that flight path, getting it off the most valuable piece of real estate in Huron Township, as far as community development, you know if we are ever going to see a nice restaurant or hotel or an industrial park close to the freeway. We'll never see it at Sibley and 275 if you got a landfill.

And so that is when the subject of a change of location came into the conversation.

Having had these two other alternate sites pointed out by the Planning Consultant S. B. Sehgal at the Solid Waste Planning Committee hearing several months back, the discussion of the South Huron Road site came into the discussion.

Mr. Haener and myself had discussed it prior to going there but that was not the purpose of going to see the site.

The site at South Huron Road is a couple hundred acres of open land but nothing is being done with it. Directly to the east of that is the freeway. From there over it's all parkland. There are very few homes in the immediate vicinity.

I just thought, if we are going to have this damn landfill pushed down our throats I think we should at least have the choice where it's going to go.

And if it's got to go somewhere, within Huron Township, then it should go in a sparsely populated area, one that is not going to go into wells that people may use, but all of the property directly to the east and southeast of this (South Huron) is already publicly owned, it's off the tax rolls, it's not going to take away people's lifetime investment in a home, like it would at Sibley Road where it's in the populated area.

I guess what's running through my mind is that in the 12 or 13 years that I've been the Township Clerk, I have spent a good deal of time, personal time, going to seminars, becoming educated to what the law says, which township officials are supposed to be doing for their communities, and to try keep the board members abreast of the changes of the law.

Not just in Huron Township but in all Townships in Michigan because I happen to believe very strongly in township government. It's the form of government which is closest to the people.

I'm here because I love the people. I'm here because I feel I can serve the community. I can do something for the community.

By being so concerned about keeping everybody in the straight and narrow, I sometimes get into some very controversial subject. And I don't always come off on the best side of things.

I'm not as thick-skinned as a lot of people think I am. I've lived here for 34 years, I intend to make this my home for the rest of my life which you know could be short the way things are going.

It's because of my interest in the community and the facts that have been pointed out repeatedly by attorneys, engineers, legislators, that because landfills are so emotional and they are like a noose around an elected officials' neck, you're damned if you do and you're damned if you don't because nobody wants a landfill.

I found myself in several other positions similar. I think this is the hardest one to face so far. But I think that anything that I have done or said to the people of this community is to try to inform them of facts.

Flights End Sports Center will be a dream come true for George Noble.

Noble venture

Flights End Sports Center is a Noble dream come true

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

In more than 30 years in the food business, George Noble has done everything from managing a luxury hotel restaurant to running a "25-hour-a-day" Coney Island in far-from-glamorous downtown Detroit.

Until recently, he was sales manager at Belleville's popular Tin Lizzie.

But Noble's latest effort may be his most challenging yet — transforming the former General Motors Credit Union building, on Ecorse Road (across from Willow Run Airport) into a bustling restaurant and sports center complex.

"This is really it. The accomplishment of a lifetime," Noble says. And, in case anyone misses the point, he adds: "It's the culmination of everything I've done in my career."

Noble is optimistic that the "Flight's End Restaurant and Lounge" will quickly become a popular refueling point ... for the pilots of the small planes that swish and swoop into Willow Run ... for hungry hydra-matic workers at the nearby GM plant ... for curious passers-by who want to enjoy a cocktail in the glassed-in lounge while viewing a free air show.

"We're talking about thousands of potential customers in this immediate area," Noble emphasizes.

Some of these thousands, he anticipates, will want to work off their luncheon calories in the sports center, to be built adjacent to the restaurant. An Olympic size pool, a 15 acre driving range, four tennis courts, and a miniature golf course should be immediate crowd pleasers, says Noble.

Noble is principal owner/operator of Flight's End, which he says will be "privately financed." He is leasing the 33 acres of the Flight's End complex under a flexible 20-year plan with GM.

The price tag for renovating the employee credit union (which closed in February) to a "nice, moderately priced steak and lobster tails restaurant" should ring up to $300,000, Noble says.

"We're able to keep costs down because the (credit union) building is in good condition for what I want," Noble explains. "The size (6000 square feet) and layout doesn't present much problems."

Bright colored Tiffany ceiling glass, brass rails, and lowered booth lights will create a "comfortable and elegant atmosphere," Noble says. The main dining room will seat 150; the lounge area, about 50. Evening visitors can enjoy a small dance floor.

The restaurant's anticipated opening date is October 15 — "Cross my fingers," Noble says, crossing them. In the rambling, empty credit union building, he's busy fielding calls from would-be restaurant workers who, he emphasizes, will be local people.

Construction of the $1 million sports center (including a "pro" shop with clothes and sports equipment) won't be finished until spring. Taking visitors on a brief outside tour, Noble pinpoints future landmarks in the now heavily wooded areas.

"The miniature golf course there," he says, pointing to a cluster of tall wildflowers and small trees, "The parking lot there ... the driving range over a stream. You can't really see it from here."

Tackling a project the size and scope of "Flight's End" isn't new to Noble. "I converted a Farmer Jack's into the Garrison within weeks," Noble recalls. (The Garrison House is a private Garden City club which Noble operated for several years.)

Another memorable job was as assistant manager at the luxurious, 1000 room Havana Riviera Hotel in 1958-59 — just before Castro came to power. "All the Americans in Havana," Noble recalls, "were told never to go more than 50 miles out of the city."

That wasn't exactly a hardship for Noble, who was provided with a "gorgeous estate, complete with swimming pool." But he decided to leave the day four government soldiers ordered him out of his car.

"They waved their guns in my face, and they asked me a lot of questions," Noble says. "I have no idea why they stopped me. But when they finally let me go, I went to my wife and said 'it's time to go back!'" She'd been telling me that all along."

Since then, Noble has stayed closer to home, operating and maintaining dining facilities in Canton and Detroit before joining the Tin Lizzie staff in 1981.

Old-fashioned doses of faith, initiative, and plain hard work helped him to get ahead in the high-pressure restaurant business, Noble says. He doesn't expect to slow down at "Flight's End."

"When you want to find me, look for me on the floor with my workers and customers," he says. "I don't expect to spend much time watching the planes take off."

15th Anniversary

Foodville believes in being involved in its community

There is more to the Foodville Super Market than meets the eye...

Sure there are those long lines of fresh fruit and vegetables. Low-priced products. Meats and dairy products. And one can go on and on.

And for years the Belleville-based supermarket, located at 524 Main, has greeted its patrons with a warm and enthusiastic smile. The store is an asset to the community not only because it is a focal point for groceries, but it also gives a lot back.

Here's Al Rizzo, the store owner, to explain.

"We've given to every local charitable organization there is," Rizzo said.

Foodville was one of the first to help start banquets for the Belleville High School Booster Club. At that time, Tommy Rizzo, Al's son, was playing football for the Cougars. "He (Mr. Al Rizzo) has been a great continuous support," said Mrs. Sam Villa, a formerly active Booster Club Member.

Belleville's Loyal Order of the Moose also has been a recipient to Foodville's generosity.

Some 3,000 - 4,000 gift certificates are a big good will item during the Christmas holidays to local customers and to organizations. The Goodfellows buy certificates to make up food baskets. The gift certificates have a discount on the face value. The store makes absolutely no profit on them.

Furthermore, Foodville graciously distributes 15 to 20 Christmas food baskets to needy families on their own recognition.

Rizzo bought Foodville in 1968. A veteran of 30 years previous experience with major grocery store chains — mostly around Pontiac — has seasoned him with every aspect of the grocery business.

Rizzo has been purchasing groceries from Albert Wolf in Detroit for over 30 years. Wolf owned expansive warehouses and developed one of the first wholesale grocery chains. At that time the chain included Allied Super Markets, Wrigley's, and Packers.

Foodville manager William Alati, better known as Bill, has been with the store since 1973. He had 15 years prior experience in grocery buying and management with Allied Super Markets.

"We've enjoyed customers shopping here for 15 years," reminisced Rizzo. "We've always been fair to our customers. We have always given 16 ounces to the pound. And we guarantee everything we sell."

The store carries a generous line of miscellaneous grocery and meat items as well as nails, tape, socks, Hanes underwear for men, ladies hosiery, glassware and cooking utensils.

Foodville is one of the very few independent stores that pay union scale. Most independent stores pay minimum wage. The store still remains competitively priced with any grocery chain in the Detroit-Metro area.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES F. RICE JR.

Romulus grads exchange vows in New Boston

St. Stephen's Catholic Church was the setting June 25 for the nuptial mass which united Debra Dorothy Greenan and James Floyd Rice Jr. in holy matrimony.

The Rev. Alexander Wytrwal presided at the four o'clock rite before some 100 relatives and friends including the young couple's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Greenan of Terry Drive, Romulus, and Mr. and Mrs. James F. Rice of Ball Road, Romulus.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown embellished with schiffli embroidered Venice lace on the sweetheart bodice. The same lace accented the bishop sleeves and A-line crystal-pleated skirt which fell in tiers to form a chapel train.

A pearl-studded lace Camelot cap secured her waltz-length veil which was appliqued with Alencon lace, crystal beads, seed pearls and sequins.

Completing her bridal finery was pear-shaped bouquet of cascading white silk roses, lilies, stephanotis and baby's breath.

A bustle-backed lavender gown of silk chiffon was worn by the maid of honor, Maureen Manion of Romulus. The off-shoulder dress was accessorized by a headpiece of lavender flowers and bouquet of small lavender orchids tied with lace streamers and lavender ribbon.

Bridesmaids in identical outfits were Debra Czajkowski of Detroit, an aunt of the bride;

Tammy Kishner of Romulus and Melanie Czajkowski of Romulus, a cousin.

Rodney Hay of Romulus was asked to be best man. Ushers were Thomas Greenan of Romulus, brother of the bride; Edward Tomkiewicz of Detroit and Harold Rice of Romulus, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Greenan was escorted to her seat wearing a gown of misty pink chiffon with a matching capelet while the bridegroom's mother was gowned in apricot silk chiffon with a companion jacket. Both were honored with corsages of silk champagne-colored roses.

Following a seven o'clock reception for some 165 guests at the Thomas Epicurean House in Trenton, the newlyweds departed for a week at the Pocono Palace in Pennsylvania and another at the Dunes Resort in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

A 1982 graduate of Romulus High School and employee of Romulus City Drugs, the new Mrs. Rice will join her husband during his technical training at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, Col.

Also a 1982 RHS graduate, Rice, an aircraft armament systems specialist with the U.S. Air Force, entered on a delayed-enlistment basis and did his basic training at Lackland AFB in Texas.

Given by the bridegroom's parents, the rehearsal dinner took place at the Mexican Inn of Wayne.

Tecumseh church setting for Box-Garcia ceremony

During an afternoon ceremony June 25 at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church in Tecumseh, Marta J. Garcia became the bride of Ronald L. Box.

The double ring rite, conducted by Monsignor Vincent Howard, joined in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Margarito S. Garcia of Adrian Street, Tecumseh, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Landy W. Box of North Shore Drive, Belleville.

Maxine Miller of Belleville and Nancy Muller of Ann Arbor were organist and soloist, respectively.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin and lace, the little fitted bodice being designed with a high neckline and bell-shaped sleeves and the toe-touching skirt with three tiers of ruffles interwoven with white satin ribbon.

To complete her bridal ensemble, she wore a lace-trimmed mantilla veil secured by a lace headdress and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

As her sister's honor attendant, Mary Lou Gorzkiewicz of Dundee donned a Victorian style chiffon gown of pale rose styled with a V-neckline and spaghetti strap bodice topped by a lace and chiffon jacket. A matching rose hat accented with veiling and bouquet of pink and rose-colored roses complimented her dress.

The quintet of bridesmaids in identical attire included Linda Wilburn of Belleville, the bridegroom's sister; Carol Garcia of Tecumseh, the bride's sister-in-law; Lisa Corey of Tecumseh and Debbie Bowman of Wyandotte, cousins of the bride and bridegroom, respectively; and Sue White of Scottsville.

The bride's 3-year-old niece, Machele Garcia of Tecumseh, and the bridegroom's 5-year-old nephew, Brent Wilburn of Belleville appeared as a miniature bride and groom. Ringbearer was 5-year-old Max Gorzkiewicz, five, a nephew of the bride.

Best man was Bill White of Scottsville and groomsmen were Marvin Garcia, Mike Garcia and Herb Gorzkiewicz, brothers and brother-in-law, respectively, of the bride; Terry Wilburn, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and Gene Berger.

Some 250 guests were present for the reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne. Mrs. Garcia, the bride's mother, greeted friends and relatives in a lavender floor-length gown to which she pinned a corsage of lavender and white pom poms and baby's breath. Similar flowers were presented to the bridegroom's mother who selected a formal gown of silver blue for the occasion.

Now residing in Belleville, the newlyweds spent a week-long honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico.

The new Mrs. Box graduated in 1975 from Tecumseh High School. Her husband, a 1972 alumnus of Belleville High School, is employed by General Motors at Ypsilanti.

The rehearsal dinner for 23 guests was hosted by the Landy Boxes at Big Daddy's Den in Saline.

I spend very little time in our basement. That's because it's just that — a basement, a place for dumping things to annoy BG. Not being fond of subterranean levels, I descend to that lower extremity only out of dire necessity. Besides, it needs a good cleaning and who wants to be pulling a ground mole act when she could be above ground with her feet planted just behind a golf ball.

The other day, out of desperation — I think I needed something from the freezer — I ventured down those stairs and before completing my errand, spotted a stack of games, those challengers that'd filled so many evenings and rainy days for kids and adults alike.

Noting their neglect and recognizing a slight but distinct mildew odor, I realized I was facing a fortune in games that would soon be candidates for the trash pile if I didn't get them into a drier climate.

Monopoly, Life, Concentration, Sorry, Flinch, Scrabble, Pokeno, Rack-O, Clue, Tiddly Cardwinks, Blue Chip, Aggravation, Michigan Rummy, Yahtzee — to name the more recognizable — all added up to quite an investment were they to be replaced.

After hauling 'em up the stairs to the kitchen counters and washing a slight film of mildew off each one, I noticed how battered the poor boxes were. Those hours of "play" had taken their toll. So I pulled out the masking tape and undertook the needed patchwork and bracing at the corners and also inspected the innards for all the necessary pieces — money, tokens, cards, dice, spinning arrows, plastic chips.

Finding myself with a small mountain of Parker Brothers-Fisher-Price playthings and no place to store them (the reason they'd been delegated to cellar status in the first place) I decided they were going back to the original recipients — the daughters-three.

Being a records-keeper of almost manic tendencies, I drew on that habit for my information, digging out several spiral notebooks inscribed "gifts sent" and "gifts received" which have been faithfully "kept" for some 32 years. How else would I know whether the chess set or Chinese checkers or bingo game went to my oldest (O), middle (M) or youngest (Y) daughter?

My research made for some interesting reading as well — how much more our dollar bought "back then" — as I backtracked over birthdays, Christmases, Easters, Valentine Days and other gifts-receivable events. I not only jotted down which games went to whom but the other toys, knickknacks, bedroom accessories and the like which were still in drawers and closets around the house.

"O" definitely won out in the games division however; books on horses seem to have been "M's" big thing with most of the doll population belonging to "Y".

Those very records have been God-sends whenever the Trio has debated a claim to particular items, some of which are now of collector's status.

So when "O" and her little family returned to Illinois after a recent weekend, they took not only a mountain of games but a rather dainty china piggy bank, a milk glass setting hen and a fragile ceramic Easter egg whose ownership had been defined as I cracked that "ledger."

Number One Grandson (someday) just might get a kick out of noting that his mom received the Life game from her grandparents on her 10th Christmas; Concentration from an uncle on her eighth birthday and just where some of those "antique" toys originated. The information is now written on the boxes or on tapes under the bases of those "other things."

In the meantime, the Sisters Three will find an old brouhaha resolved — that of the Madam Alexander dolls. From the cast of "Little Women", Beth and Marmie are "Y's"; Jo belongs to "M" and "O" can claim ownership of Meg. Amen!

TO GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH AND NATIONAL BANK OF DETROIT for helping beautify Belleville. The former is fronted by colorful geranium beds while the north side (which drive-thru customers at the bank can view) is bordered by masses of multi-hued impatiens which almost climb the walls in places.

NBD's little acreage in the heart of Belleville provides a green oasis and inviting rest area for anyone who cares to sit and perhaps chat for a spell. Its masses of sunny marigolds and striking red geraniums add a garden atmosphere to an otherwise nondescript street.

Hats off!

THE BOTTOM LINE: Make up your mind to enjoy life. It's the only game in town.

A little girl,
and the library

EDITOR — Yesterday, we had to wipe the tears from the face of our six-year-old daughter and try to explain to her why the librarian at the Canton Public Library could not let her check out the books she had painstakingly selected.

Answers we received from a number of sources would make it appear that economic conditions in the city of Westland have deteriorated to the point where the budgetary axe has fallen upon one more institutional service.

We had foolishly come to expect — almost as an inalienable right — the opportunity to check out books at a public library.

Understandably, in difficult times, we can't expect to continue the full scope of municipal services abundantly available in better times. Sanitation, police, fire, and other vital services must continue despite the gravity of the City's fiscal crisis. We would complain mightily if the Mayor or City Council refused to pay for the above services.

However, is it not equally threatening to our security if we are deprived of our free access to knowledge? Isn't the ready availability and access to literature and other printed and visual media at our public libraries just one small measure of our status as a democratic and civilized society?

The small amount of city tax revenue withdrawn from the Wayne County Federated Library System by the Westland City Council may allow the City to continue picking up my trash and garbage without fail each Friday morning.

But, we are still groping for an explanation to help our children understand why they can no longer check out books from their favorite library.

Candidate says
he's anti-arcade

EDITOR — This letter is in reply to the "Letter to the Editor" in the August 10-11 edition sent in by Mrs. Bates referring me to being pro-arcade. What she said was not true at all. I am sorry to hear that she has misleading information. I have never continuously tried to bring arcades into this city, or any city, not once.

I have two children of my own which I do not want to bring up in a city that is overloaded with arcades. At the present there are two arcades in the city, which I am in no way involved.

I believe the City Council is aware of the problems that do occur in arcades, and I personally hope they do not approve any more locations for them. I will vote against added locations if elected to the council.

I am running for City Council. That alone should say a lot. Maybe it is not coming through quite clear though. I am hoping to win the election because I believe I can help benefit the city and the people.

Perhaps I should mention some of the things I am involved in and perhaps you can relate the fact that my intentions are the extreme opposite of what you have heard.

I am in constant contact with children, teen-agers, and adults in my market. I do not at any time allow any type of improper conduct.

I also have contact with the youth of the community through some organizations. I am a baseball coach in Wayne, my team this year consisted of 16 boys and 1 girl, ages 7, 8, 9. I was asked to coach this team because there were no other volunteers. Now I could have said no and left the team hoping they would get a coach soon but I said yes. Knowing that I gave 3 hours of my time 2 or 3 times a week for these boys and girls to participate in baseball games with the other approximate 90 boys their age was a rewarding feeling.

I am also a board member in the Wayne Youth Hockey Association. There are about 150 youths that play hockey in Wayne. I am on the board to help make decisions to benefit the young hockey players.

I have taken Cub Scouts to various outings because there was no other volunteers to get the boys there.

I have donated to many organizations such as the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Wayne Jaycees, school fairs, figure skating, food drives, Kiwanis, Cub Scouts, and Cub Scout Detroit Area Council Boy scouts, hockey, and St. Marys. Rarely have I said no when asked.

I have sponsored bowling teams, Junior Baseball, Soccer, Womens Softball, Mens baseball and Volleyball.

I have received letters from schools thanking me for employing their students in their co-op programs.

I have been an auxiliary policeman in Wayne for 3 years now and have put in many hours assisting our police department by doing vacation watches, traffic control, parades, football games, and special details.

Most of my hours have been on the midnight shift when the people are asleep and more subject to crime, I do not get paid for this but I know that this is contributing to the health and safety of our citizens.

Now, Mrs. Bates, you will not find me in or around an arcade, my children do not even go, but if you look you might find me on a baseball field with children, or in an ice rink, at home, or working in my market, or maybe you will see me in a squad car when I am working at the police department patrolling and protecting our city and its many fine citizens.

coverage 'great'

EDITOR — On behalf of the Wayne County 4-H staff, leaders, youngsters, and parents we would like to thank-you for the generous publicity that you have given our youth program.

Message to V-B,
area residents

EDITOR — Residents of Van Buren Township and surrounding communities need to now raise their voices to our representatives Edward Mahalk and William Faust, to the County Executive Bill Lucas and Governor James Blanchard to enforce the petitions, resolutions and letters that have been sent via Lansing to the DNR — to drop consideration of the permit amendment being sought by Wayne Disposal, to lower the flashpoint of the toxic wastes being received by Wayne Disposal from 140° to 90°.

Van Buren has too long been tolerant of the responsibility of being the dump of the State of Michigan, and before our citizens become the endangered species, and because we are able to prevent a disaster from happening — join in I happen to believe that the DNR is there for our benefit.

Because the Township Board has taken a unanimous stand against the toxic waste matter, we have received encouraging responses from Rep. Mahalk, Sen. Faust, County Executive Lucas and Governor Blanchard. Back us up now — let them know how you feel. The DNR will make their decision, as I understand it, within a week, so it is very important to speak up immediately.

field trips, classes provided by the schools, luncheons, dinners, etc. The Wayne Ford Civic League has a dinner-dance monthly for Westland Seniors. Why spend more money when there are already adequate programs available?

We've already poured money into Cooper and Whittier schools but the Department on Aging and their staff never seem satisfied.

I have never heard of overcrowding at the Friendship Center — in fact many times the center is empty except for the people who work there.

Westland is filled with people who are unemployed, teens with little to do, others overburdened by taxes. The city looks a mess and could use some money for beautification if it ever becomes available.

Surely, this great sum of money could be better spent than catering to one age group who already have more services than they can possibly use.

Council members are using this as a political football to gain votes and I'm sure most senior citizens would not favor this money allocation if someone would bother to ask them.

Waste not — want not!

More on Westland
political meeting

EDITOR — Having been an invited guest at the meeting held on July 17, 1983 at the Forum Racquet Club by four Westland Council candidates, I must respond to Mr. Charles Pickett's letter to the editor published August 3-4, 1983.

Mr. Pickett admitted seeing a copy of a flyer from a friend. There were no flyers sent for this meeting. Flyers are delivered door-to-door. Only invitations were mailed and paid for by the four council candidates.

Each Council candidate: Tom Artley, Ben DeHart, Kent Herbert, and Robert Wagner had their own personal invitation lists. The invitations were sent to their supporters and workers and, in part, stated: "We've worked together in many campaigns in the past." In the past, Mr. Pickett has never worked for any of these Council candidates. Only against them!

No where on the invitation were the words "Open Meeting" or "Open to the Public."

The Council candidates had nothing to hide and certainly were not running scared by five or six uninvited people.

There is a right of each citizen to call for assistance from the Police Department when their privacy is intruded upon.

If Mr. Pickett chooses to hold a private meeting for the supporters of his and the mayor's candidate choices, I'm certain out of the handful in attendance there would be no uninvited intruders (including myself).

Thanks for Fun Squad

EDITOR — On behalf of our four children who attended the "Fun Squad" these past years we would like to publicly thank the organization and the staff who have made it so successful.

A farewell picnic for the individual "Fun Squad" groups was recently held at Attwood Park in Wyne, and the kids really enjoyed it. There were games and hot dogs, chips, watermelon and drink.

When I think of the many citywide activities aimed at children that Wayne provides, I feel fortunate to live here.

Keep up the good work!"

I only wish there was away to bring back the trout at the pool.

reflections

Adam and Eve revisited

I love the phrase 'Love is a many splendored thing . . . !' It puts love right up where it is supposed to be, on a little pink cloud, shimmery and misty . . . from which emanates a rosy glow, touching one with a soft radiance.

It is something like the Christmas wish . . . never quite completely gratified . . . always before you, tantalizing one with its radiant glow . . . whispering promises never quite fulfilled . . . almost within reach, but never quite so.

Of course, this is where the difference lies in the two sexes. Man's love is all mixed up with his basic instincts, his love for comfort, a fire in the fireplace, a good book, a cold bottle of beer, or a steaming cup of coffee . . . no fighting kids, and the little woman with a smiling face bustling about making him more comfortable.

Now, if you don't believe me, I have it on very good authority. A certain psychoanalyst from the eastern coast wrote it, and I would give you his name except I misplaced the book. But even though I can't remember his name, I can remember what he said.

Since he was a man, he was, of course, speaking to the little woman, suggesting how she could put that little pink cloud out of her mind and get down to supplying her husband with all the creature comforts and not waste time dallying around dreaming about the shimmer of romance. In this way he could supply her with affection, and if she really worked at it, he might even get that little pink cloud for her.

After I put that book down I felt positively inspired. In the over 35 years I have been married I had always assumed that the man in my life was just like me, reaching for the pink cloud, and not really too bothered about whether the kitchen floor got scrubbed today or next week.

In fact, I thought we had always communed on that thing called love and very well. But if the good doctor knew that I could put more radiance in my home, then I was all for it.

I bustled down the steps and grabbed ten or twelve shirts from the overflowing ironing basket and bustled back up to the ironing board, feeling ever so domestic, polishing up my radiance.

And I stood there, and I ironed those shirts, every blasted one of them, scorching only a couple.

When I heard the car in the drive I rushed through the living room and met my love there in the hall with a beaming smile on my face. And I said, "Darling I ironed all of your shirts today, every single one."

I should have realized what a shock it was going to be to him. After I threw water in his face, and massaged his wrists, he stood up and put his arms about me. He breathed softly into the top of my head, and then he gently lifted my face towards him.

I could see the radiance surrounding him. He looked deep into my eyes, and then said: "Wonderful! Now how about tomorrow putting some socks into the second drawer from the top? Don't strain yourself, one or two pair will be fine for a start!"

The people marched... again

On the occasion of the 20th Anniversary of Martin Luther King's march on Washington, the people did it again.

The people — some 250,000 strong — mingled on the sweltering flood plain once again, arms linked, voices raised, trying to assure one another — and an entire country — that Martin Luther King's dream of brotherhood and peace was alive and well and living in America.

The people — black and white, young and old, rich and poor — went through the motions and carried out the plan, all right. They streamed off of buses delivering them from all over the country, and made quick friends with strangers sharing a common purpose.

Someone said, "This is going to be fun. I was here 20 years ago, and this is going to be fun."

And for some, it was fun. When 250,000 people gather in one place on a hot, humid summer's day, the atmosphere can't help but become carnival.

Some came because they had been there 20 years before and it seemed only fitting that they should be there again. They wouldn't have missed it for the world.

Some came because they had been too young to participate in the early march. They missed something when they missed Martin Luther King and they wanted to find a sense of him there.

Still others — the majority, maybe — came because there was too much evidence, even after 20 long years, that the dream was not yet reality. That the vision of a free nation, an equal nation was just that: An elusive, ephemeral vision.

And there, in fact, was the underlying sadness of a march for freedom and equality that had to take place 20 years after the original march — the march that had held so much promise.

Statistics, brought out on the occasion of this new march on Washington, showed that blacks, while they had come up the ladder in jobs and education and infant mortality, were still as far behind whites as they had ever been. Whites had come up the ladder even more. There was no catching up, it seemed.

And so the march. To commemorate a man who had a vision and to remind a nation that its foundations were based on the premise that "all men are created equal". To remind the nation — and its leaders — that "men" meant humankind. Black and red and yellow and white, male and female, young and old.

And to that end, and for the moment, the march was successful. There was one small irony, however.

The nation's leaders — the ones for whom the message was especially meant — were not at home. Congress was on vacation, as was the president, in California.

But no matter — there's no hiding from the fact that 250,000 people converged in their front yard, even while they were away, and reaffirmed the hopes of a gentle, decent man as he said, in that very spot, 20 years before:

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. . . when all God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing... 'Free at Last.'"

Why spend $200,000 on Senior Center?

EDITOR — Spending more than $200,000 to renovate the Westland Senior Center in order to hold parties, is an insult to the taxpayers of Westland.

Seniors in our city already have so many activities to attend they can't fit them all in their schedule. There is a new Senior Center, run by the school district, which is an excellent facility and located not more than 300 yards from the city's Senior Building. There are also activities in every senior apartment. Parties,

our opinions

Labor and its day

Depression weary labor, industry and business, caught in an economic maelstrom that left millions of lives shattered over the past four years, can look to Labor Day 1983 with optimism.

The economy definitely is looking up.

All economic indicators are "go". Unemployment, at record levels only a few months ago, has reached the single digit number across most of the nation and the auto industry, although it may never again reach its exalted place in Michigan economy, has shown signs that it is making a comeback.

But for millions of Americans, Labor Day 1983 still will remain a day of dreams shattered, of necessities out of reach. It will be a day they still covet a job.

One is reluctant even to think "positively" when it comes to the economy. We, who have hoisted sail in its winds, know how easily ill winds can blow.

There will be Labor Day parades. Solidarity marches. Reminders of Labor's "Golden Age" when it could almost dictate its demands on management and business. The insatiable appetite for higher wages and more benefits and more this and that helped precipitate the almost anti-labor sentiments here and abroad.

In our pursuit of the mirage called economic "security" Americans unwittingly neared the brink of chaos.

The effete intellectuals informed us that all product is the work of Labor, therefore, Labor was entitled to its share and the share got bigger with time. When industry made a "profit", it triggered more demands by labor. "Profit" became a dirty word.

Now we have had that "breather".

We have been able to look back and reassess where we as a people, as a nation, have been, are heading. The road has been a difficult one — but it has we believe made all — Labor, management, business and industry stronger for our experiences.

Although there is still suspicions about motives, Labor has come to realize that a corporation that loses money can not long endure. And corporations are learning that workers unemployed can not purchase products.

This is no secret. One can find books crammed on library shelves on the subject. What unfortunately has happened is that this generation had to learn those hard, cold tragic facts by experience.

Let us hope this is the last generation of Americans that has to know unemployment.

New school year

In the next few weeks, schools across our country will reopen for a new school year. When school begins, students, teachers and administrators alike have the opportunity for a new beginning.

There are many criticisms of education being made today. Some would have us dismantle our entire system — or at least, significantly alter it. Yet, the idea of education is older than our nation. Education has served our country well and is surely here to stay.

As school opens in Wayne-Westland, you can be certain that teachers and administrators have resolved that this coming school year will be one of superior quality. We plan to do everything we can to help your children succeed. If there is anything more we can do, or assistance you can provide, please let us know.

As a parent, now may be the ideal time to sit down with your children and discuss the seriousness of going to school to learn. You may want to impress upon your children that learning takes time and is hard work — and that a good beginning can lead to a super year. All research shows that when the home and school cooperate, education is improved for students.

As this new school year begins, parents and educators alike need to think seriously about how we might become a part of the solution to this country's problems. A solid education for every child is certainly one of the solutions. We hold the key in our hands. Know that you can count on us.

Racing a summer storm

editorial feedback

In defense of recalls — a Constitutional right

THE SUBJECT OF RECALL — AGAIN
This is in reply to Mona Grigg's column of August 10, 1983.

I very much regret that Ms. Grigg is "bored with writing about recalls", and that she also finds recalls and recall people boring. I find this point of view rather curious, since she at no time in her two columns on the subject, has dealt with the right of the people to recall any elected officials. Nor has she ever really addressed the issues behind the recall efforts.

The right of the people to recall elected officials is based upon our Constitution. Our forefathers were wise enough to know that the people needed protection from inept government bodies, and individuals. They wanted the people to have control and the ultimate say in governmental matters.

In fact, they gave the people an elaborate system of checks and balances to guarantee that our democracy would thrive. The survival of our democratic form of government far out-weighs the cost of any recall election, special election, or political result there of.

The result of a recall effort, is far less important than the fact that this alternative is available to us because we are fortunate enough to live in a DEMOCRACY.

If it were left up to Ms. Grigg, we would no doubt have another less desirable form of government.

Ms. Grigg states that the special elections have cost the Wayne-Westland taxpayer $44,000. What she does not tell her reader is that the recent teacher's salary increase of 7 to 9 per cent cost the taxpayer approximately 2-3 million dollars.

Ms. Grigg fails to realize that every elected official is accountable to the people he serves. He had better be willing to "answer accusations", and to "justify his decisions", or he may find himself ousted from, or voted out of office.

Most politicians know and accept these realities. They expect to spend time in debate and discussion of issues, with each other and the public.

School boards are composed of laymen. Whether they are elected, appointed, or interim is irrelevant. Because of its vested powers, there is really no such thing as a "lame duck board." Their powers enable them to govern the school system regardless of their personal political learnings or opinions.

Also, in an emergency, the superintendent can operate the schools. The state makes special provisions for this. A quorum is not an absolute necessity in times of change or transition.

As a columnist/journalist Ms. Grigg has an obligation to the reader to adequately research her material. She appears to have failed to do her homework. She has confused and misrepresented the facts and issues, which brought about this recall. She has been "incredibly — no, supremely — irresponsible," in her presentation of this subject. "Oh the shame of it". She has by her own effort (or lack of effort) caused the reader to seriously question her credibility as a columnist.

The personal, petty, and childish emotional attack upon Phyllis Runion is inexcusable. Could it be possible that the Editor will find a way to recall you because of the lack of quality in your work?

It is my feeling that Ms. Runion deserves a kind word. I have read everything that she has ever written to The Associated Newspapers. At no time has she ever attacked anyone personally. She has attacked various issues with intelligence, depth, thoroughness, and caring. The fact that she worked hard in the recall is to her credit. She should be lauded and praised for her efforts.

Can the same be said for Mona Grigg?

'The scarlet letter'

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

To reaffirm our philosophy at this newspaper to publish the "critical" as well as "the good" letters addressed to us, here is a note from Westland resident and longtime reader of the Associated Newspapers that has some piercing (for our staff) information.

It was addressed to David Willett, Publisher of the Associated Newspapers:

Dear Mr. Willett,

When I read the Detroit News I know, when I read the Westland Observer I know, but when I read the Westland Eagle I don't know a damn thing. What's going on in the City of Westland?

I am referring to the scandal of the 18th District Court in Westland. Not one paragraph is printed in your newspaper. Why? Other newspapers see fit to have this newsworthy item on their front page.

Also, I don't see anything about the recall of Senator Faust, and Representative Barns. Why the cover-up of these important issues? I believe the citizens of Westland deserve to know the answers!

I have spoken to your managing editor about these issues, but never got any satisfactory answers. Evidently the editor must be taking the orders from the publisher on what to print.

So let's get on with it and say it as it is! Expecting an answer at your earliest convenience.

Joe Doline

Dear Mr. Doline,

You are absolutely right — we have been negligent in our job in covering the alleged "case-fixing trial" involving the accused 18th District Court Judge Evan Callanan Sr., his attorney son, Evan Callanan Jr., Richard Debs, the former Van Buren Township Police Commander, and presently Ypsilanti UAW Local 1776 President, and Sam Quoud, the Dearborn Heights businessman. They are "excellent copy" for most of the metropolitan daily newspapers.

And a couple of weeklies.

We do believe that the citizens have a right to know. And we do believe that when the verdict is in, we will be there to provide all of the information and the decision. So hang in there jury.

Scandals do make good reading. Sells papers. Increases circulation. Fattens publisher's pockets and adds to advertisement lineage.

Why would we try to "cover-up" such a "juicy story"?

No way, Joe. No way.

But there is in this business of ours something called journalistic etiquette. We don't like "rewriting" the dailies or our competitors' stories.

Presently, we are unable to dispatch a reporter to the Circuit Court "to cover" the case. We have been interviewing reporters to fill the vacancy created by former news editor Susan McDonald's departure. We won't hurry up the process because we seek quality to replace quality. We won't take second bests.

We believe our search has ended and we will soon have someone on the staff.

Unfortunately (for us) this time-consuming process came when Westland is embroiled in controversy (And when hasn't the city had its problems?).

We have served Westland since its early township days and we will continue to serve it with quality coverage, not with second-hand information or AP and UPI wire service material.

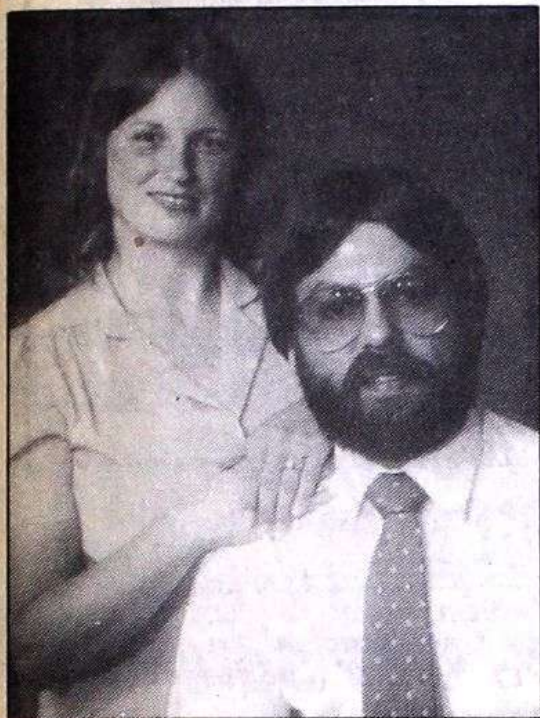

Our reporters and writers are not subject to the vicissitudes of the publisher, as you write. Thank God this is a newspaper that has remained editorially independent and not handcuffed by prior restraints — glance over at the next page and you will see and read the countless letters — uncensored — that we receive each week. No publisher looks over our shoulder to read what we are writing prior to publication.

These people have something to say. And we will allow them to say it. They have a right to be heard and turn to this newspaper to be heard.

However if Judge Callanan's tragic saga is being well publicized by the newspaper, the recall of Senator William Faust and State Rep. Justine Barns apparently isn't.

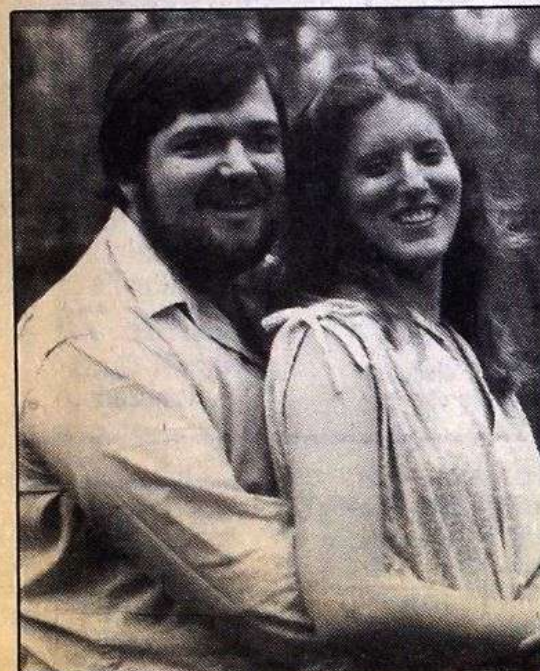

If there is a recall aimed at these two able and capable legislators, it is the best kept secret in Western Wayne County.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
By John Brimble

Leftover pasta turns into a delicious dish. Marinate overnight in a garlicky vinaigrette, then blend with cooked vegetables such as cubed celery, scallions, whatever) and bind with a little mayonnaise.

Here's a switch: slip flavorful stuffing under the skin of chicken (instead of in the cavity) before you roast. Herbs and vegetables will season the meat.

Fill a pint jar with raisins, and cover them with brandy or rum. Keep refrigerated. The plumped raisins are ready to add sensational flavor to rice pudding, pound cake, or even plain ice cream.

Great go-along for a barbecue is a gelatin mold flavored with tomato juice, a little vinegar, and gazpacho vegetables such as cubed celery, peppers, cucumbers, onion, and more tomato.

No more Jones

Americans change their spending and savings habits

"Keeping up with the Joneses," an old saw which once all too poignantly described American consumerism, has been rendered obsolete in today's economy. In its stead, another phrase has crept up: "keeping afloat."

The economics of a recession laced with inflation hardly allow consumers the luxury of spending in the patterns which emerged during post-World War II prosperity. For nearly a decade now, Americans have been forced to modify their habits; the wastefulness born of prosperity has at long last met its end.

There are abundant indications of this change in the American consciousness. In government as in industry and the private sector, measures both dramatic and moderate have been implemented to scale down budgets.

Individuals have been given incentive to save for the future, receiving substantial tax breaks if the savings takes the form of high-interest yielding Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) or other long-term investment plans.

Individuals, too, have changed their habits of spending and consumption in the past decade. In the years since the four-fold increase in oil prices in the early 1970s, Americans have moved from careless consumption to careful conservation.

Overall energy consumption has decreased markedly from levels of 10 years ago, owing to such measures as car pooling, driving smaller automobiles, lowered thermostats and home improvements designed to reduce energy waste.

In a nationwide trend, older homes have been converted, while modern homes are being constructed to rely upon solar energy systems for hot water and heat. More and more people are turning to wood burning stoves and less costly gas heat to supplement their energy needs.

Some indications of changing consumer habits are perhaps a bit more subtle. The home gardener who raises his or her own vegetables may do so out of love for gardening, but those resulting tomatoes and cucumbers represent a savings.

The thrifty do-it-yourselfer — a new breed of American consumer in modern times — is undertaking projects which range from building furniture to knitting sweaters, from basic auto maintenance and repairs to bread-baking and home canning.

In spite of such foreboding signs as high unemployment, high interest rates and the inaccessibility of mortgages, and the increasing costs of education — in short, the ever-increasing cost of living — life in the United States is all but gloomy.

Americans today enjoy opportunities which are but a fleeting thought in the minds of suppressed and impoverished peoples upon earth. With careful planning, good sense and a touch of Yankee ingenuity, those opportunities do still lead to the American dream.

Video games, computers keep entertainment home

Home entertainment appears to be booming despite a downturn in consumer spending. Sales of video games and personal computers are expected to increase toward the holidays with demand doubling over last year. One large toy store reports these items make up 16 percent of its gross sales.

The fastest growing segment of home computer sales are units selling for less than $1,000 which are used for games, family finances and teaching. The Michigan Association of CPAs says use of the equipment could help decrease your budget, especially if you discontinue your normal entertainment expenses. However, related costs might arise, so it's wise to investigate total expense before investing in a home computer.

A variety of single units and systems comprise home computers which perform functions from simple calculations to music composition, depending on their programs. Home computers consist of hardware — the machines themselves, and software — programs that tell the computer what to do.

Basic hardware consists of a keyboard and main unit, which are available from $100. If you need your system only for information, such as stock quotes, you can purchase a simple computer and subscribe, with monthly payments, to an information network. Your computer connects to the network through the telephone, so you'll probably need extra hardware such as an interface board and a

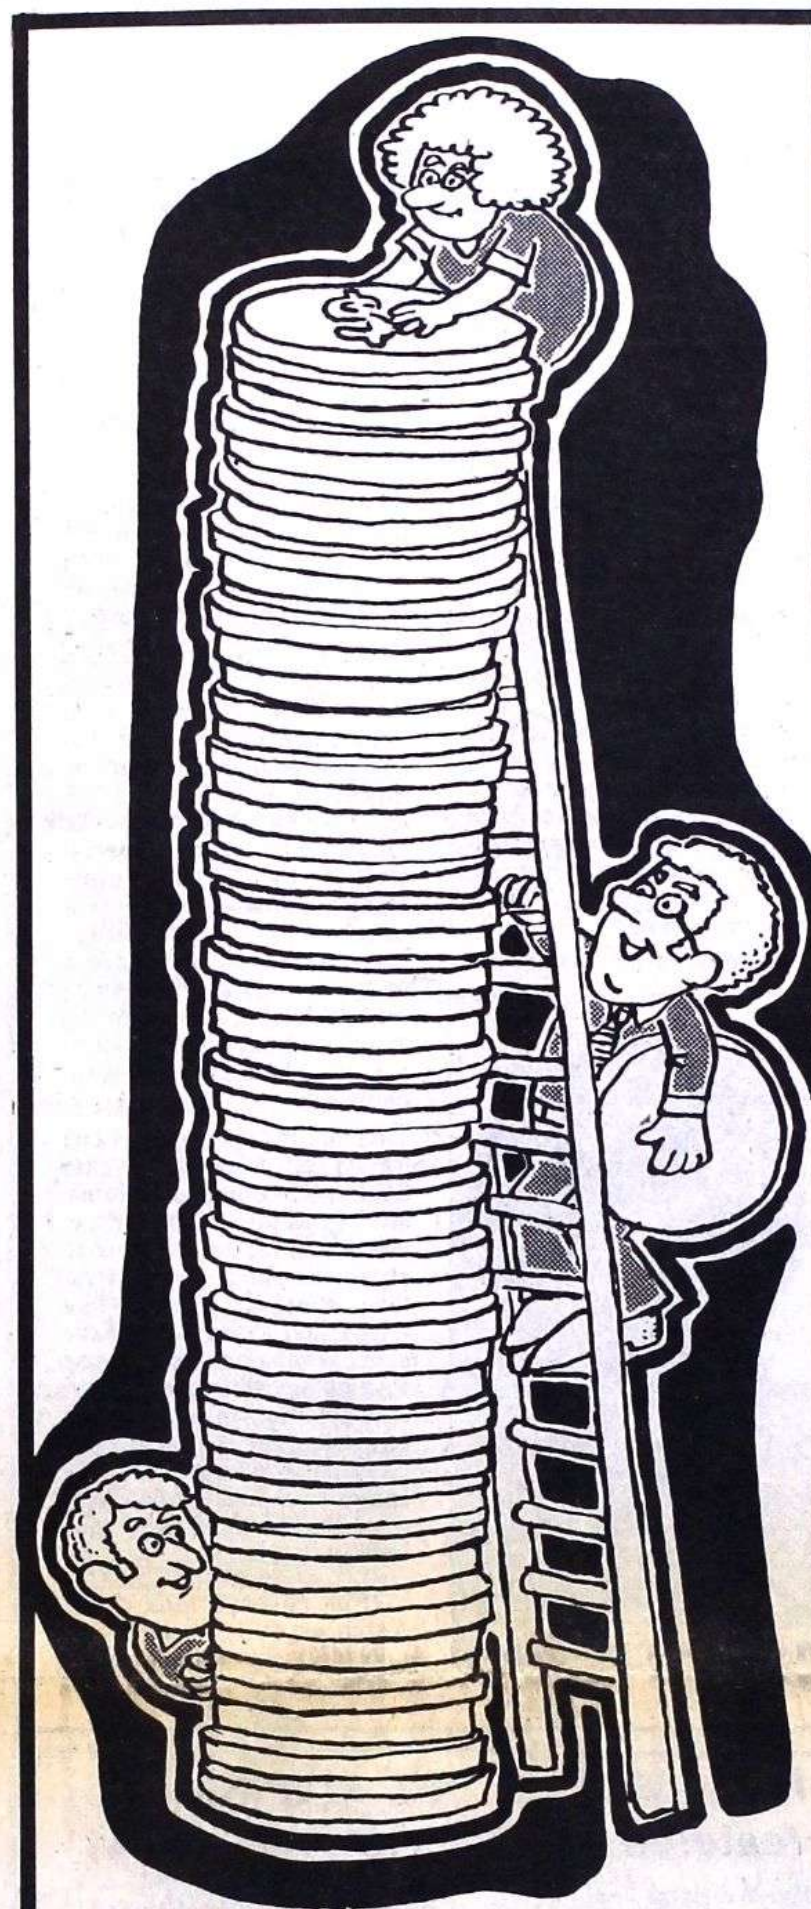

Get exam with eyes wide open

To avoid being shortchanged when getting their eyes examined, consumers should find out in advance what the examination will cover, says the American Optometric Association.

You should get tests to determine how well you see at far and near distances; whether or not vision problems such as nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism are hampering your ability to see; how well your eyes work together as a team; and how well you can change focus from near to far and vice versa.

You should also get eye health tests, including one for glaucoma. During these, the doctor of optometry can also detect signs of general health problems such as high blood pressure or diabetes.

There may be other tests, depending upon the results of the basic examination.

Golden years?

Elderly find some aid from federal programs

Working hard for 40 or 50 years, the average American fantasizes about a leisurely retirement.

For the majority of older Americans, though, retirement is not their dream-come-true. Instead, retirement often burdens the senior citizen with financial hardships. Due to the loss of a steady salary, the retiree has difficulty making ends meet on a monthly pension and/or Social Security benefits.

In order to financially assist the ever-increasing number of older Americans, several programs have been devised by the U.S. Government.

Anxiety over taxes may be alleviated because of the special guidelines and exemptions the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) offers to the over-65 age group.

As taxes are based on income, persons 65 or over do not have to file a federal income tax return if their income was under $4300.

Combined income for married couples filing a joint return, with only one spouse 65 or older, is $6400; if both spouses are 65 or older, the limit is $7400.

Older Americans whose income level exceeds these limits are eligible for tax reductions. In addition to the regular taxpayer's exemption of $1000 for him/herself, his/her spouse, and his/her dependents, each senior citizen is entitled to an extra exemption of $1000.

Married couples who are both 65 or over and file a joint return may take a $2000 exemption.

There is also a "Credit for the Elderly," formerly known as "Retirement Income Credit," originally established to benefit people not receiving Social Security payments.

Candidates for this credit include anyone 65 or over as well as people under 65 who are receiving pensions from the public retirement system; check with your local IRS office to determine your eligibility.

Senior citizens selling their personal residence may take advantage of another tax benefit. The once-in-a-lifetime $100,000 tax exclusion of the gain on the sale of your home applies to those people 55 and older who have sold their personal residence prior to July 20, for sales after this date, exclusions are up to $125,000.

Because the aging process sometimes encompasses weakening senses, the government has determined impairment deductions.

Taxpayers over age 65 are allowed an additional $1,000 exemption for blindness. A person is considered blind, for tax purposes, if the central visual acuity does not exceed 20/200 in the better eye with corrective lenses or the field of vision is less than 20 degrees.

Assistance in filing tax returns is available for deaf and hearing-impaired taxpayers, of all ages, who have access to TV/Telephone-TTY Equipment. Interested individuals should call 1-800-428-4732 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 6:45 p.m. E.S.T.

Free tax counseling is provided for everyone over age 60 at his/her local IRS office. The IRS also offers free publications which explain various aspects of tax law.

To obtain this information, you may send in the order blank from your tax package; allow at least 10 days for delivery.

IRS Bulletins of interest to older taxpayers include: 501 "Exemptions," 502 "Medical and Dental Expenses," 505 "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," 523 "Tax Information on Selling Your Home," 524 "Credit for the Elderly," 554 "Tax Benefits for Older Americans," and 575 "Pension and Annuity Income."

Besides tax breaks, there are several other beneficial programs for the older person of limited assets and income:

• Supplemental Security Income (SSI) is a basic income or supplement for persons who are 65 or older, disabled or blind. To determine eligibility, apply in person or phone any Social Security office; if homebound, a home visit will be arranged.

• Food Stamps are cash-value coupons for use in stores and Centers, or for home delivered meals. In-person applications are accepted at Food Stamp Centers; an SSI-Only or homebound person may apply by mail.

• Medicaid pays or shares costs in hospitals, community or home health care. Apply at a local Medicaid office.

According to Al Tyson, public information officer at the Federal Administration on Aging regional #2 branch in New York City, older Americans seeking financial assistance should contact their toll-free, statewide Senior Citizen's Hotline or their local area agency on aging.

'From late night to you'

It would not be pure speculation to state that Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle is the hottest night spot in town. One need only check the list of nationally known acts that appear at the club on a weekly basis, or listen to the laughter shaking the walls and ceiling of the club, which is situated downstairs at John Laffrey's restaurant at 4616 N. Woodward in Royal Oak, to discover that the world of stand-up comedy is alive and well in the Detroit area.

Priced to suit even the slimmest of wallets, the Comedy Castle can provide hours of fun and laughter for half the price of a concert ticket. The prices, as well as the talent, have combined to make the club THE place to go. Comedians often plug upcoming Castle appearances on the Tonight Show, Merv, and Late Night With David Letterman, giving the comedy club a national reputation.

One of the best young comics in the country, Jay Leno, is currently playing at the Comedy Castle.

Leno, who is 33-years-old, is perhaps best known for his many visits to television's funniest hour, Late Night with David Letterman. It was he who brought out the "David Letterman Cutout Book," which "has all of the outfits Dave wears on TV." It showed one suit, and one prep sweater. It was Leno who, as they say, wowed 'em in his deluxe tux on Letterman's first Friday night special, described as "an all-star extravaganza," and titled, uniquely enough, "Dave."

Until the stints on Late Night though, Jay Leno was pretty much unknown to the public at large, despite starring in films like "American Hot Wax" and "Americathon" ("A lot of films which opened on American Airlines"), as well as various television situation comedies, among them "Alice," "Laverne & Shirley," and "One Day At a Time."

"I do prefer doing stand-up comedy to television though," says Leno, "They're fun, they're OK, but with stand-up you control the whole thing yourself. If you don't think a joke is particularly funny, you don't have to use it. Besides, with TV, there's a lot of standing around and waiting. Don't misunderstand - I like doing TV and hope to do more, it's just not as important to me as stand-up."

Jay first got interested in comedy after hearing contemporary comedians like Robert Klein and George Carlin. "Before them, comics were all in their mid-40s, doing bits about wives and mothers-in-law, things that just didn't concern me," he explained. "Then, all of a sudden, Carlin was up there talking about school, street kids, things like that that I could relate to, and I thought 'gee, they laugh at the same stuff that I laugh at.' And that's how I became interested in it."

Leno, like most younger comics, writes all of his own material. "It's a lot like being a musician," Leno said, "and I think the old days of just having a good voice are over. Now, you need to know how to write, produce, perform and arrange everything yourself. It's the same thing in comedy. Plus, personal point of view is very important."

Thanks to his numerous

appearances on the Letterman show, Leno says that "things are going very good for me right now. I've been on the road a lot this year because the demand has been there, and as long as people want to see me, I'll be there."

Regular viewers of Late Night with David Letterman won't be disappointed with Leno's stage act either, because he promises it won't be material he's done on the show - it'll all be new to the crowd. "I like to write special stuff for the TV show, especially visual material, since it is television. But it always annoyed me when I'd see a comedian on Carson, then go see him in a club and hear the exact same thing verbatim. I'd feel cheated, so I avoid doing that."

As for his future plans, Leno is "doing Letterman" again September 6th and October 4th, but as far as long term is concerned, he doesn't want to stray too far from his first love, stand-up. "People like Cosby and Pryor, they have such great careers because they go out, do stand-up, and then get offers to do movies or television. But they always go back to stand-up, it always comes back there. And that's what I'd like to be doing ultimately."

Quite a prize

Wayne woodcarver Bert Rakotz invited four-year-old Taba Brown of Wayne to try out the hand-carved carousel horse which will be raffled at the city's Old-Fashioned Homecoming Festival (Sept. 8-11). Rakotz spent three weeks carving the horse out of bass wood, first using a chainsaw and then chisels. The work of art is a true copy of a carousel horse from the 1800's. The Business and Professional Women are selling tickets at $1 each. Drawing will be on Sunday, September 11 at 8 p.m. at the Festival site in downtown Wayne.

Swashbucklers avoid sinking

Born in the 40s, a rebellious teen-ager in the 60s, nearly dead in the 70s, CATV survived and grew into a mature and healthy industry in the 80s... the decade of technology.

But the transition from "toddler" to "maturity" did not come without strain, and the brows of many CATV pioneers still bear furrows plowed by the team of "uncertainty" and "risk".

And no chronicle of the CATV industry would be complete without at least a peek at the character of the men who had built the industry.

There exists in the hearts of some men, an absolute need to be at the "cutting-edge" of technology. Independent, free-thinking, free-swinging, swashbuckling pioneers have existed throughout recorded time. Disdained by the established system, these "Black Beards" cared little for the safe harbor, convinced that life was of little value without the thrill of "risks."

And while the seams of society are held together by the cement produced of these men, their often incredible risk created equally incredible records.

In the 50s the antithesis of the three-piece pin-stripe suited broadcast television executive was the enterprising cable entrepreneur scratching for his niche in a new industry.

Arrogantly self-confident in the knowledge that he had a better way... a better plan, the early CATV pioneers were "hands-on" businessmen who did it themselves. (See CABLE — page B-3)

Cable pioneers face problems from TV networks

selves to ensure that it was done right.

A product of their own sweat, these entrepreneurs hurled themselves at a new challenge... providing that challenge promised substantial reward, and on paper, the CATV industry looked like a great place to make a lot of money.

But in 1975, many of these cable pioneers went to their great reward in bankruptcy court.

The cable depression had begun.

Due to many factors: the general economy, lack of investment capital, cable technology, and a growing perception by investors that CATV was no longer a good investment, the 30-year-old cable industry screeched to a halt.

With cash-flows shrinking, markets dwindling, cable desperately needed a new idea. With broadcast television growing by leaps and bounds, the CATV industry found itself trying to compete with broadcast, on broadcast's turf, but without the resources to win.

While cable served a need in communications without a television station, its perceived value diminished substantially when a broadcast station turned on in the same market. Cable was, of course, only an "extension cord" for broadcast.

Between 1972 and 1975, the cable industry, and related business, suffered many irreversible losses. The very heart of cable...

technology, was no longer expanding. Industries which had made decisions to specialize in cable related equipment and materials, shut down or switched to more promising fields.

It has been estimated that in 1972, no fewer than 12 major companies were in the process of developing new technology to allow cable operators to offer subscribers home burglar and fire alarm service.

In 1976, only one of those companies was still in business.

In the years between 1972 and 1975, many communities granted cable companies permission to construct and operate systems. But many of these systems were never built by the entrepreneurs who now could no longer find financing for the projects.

It was during the period of '72 and '75 that cable faced its greatest challenge. And cable pioneers faced new and deeper furrows.

And cable continued to wait for the new idea... a way to compete effectively with broadcast.

In November of 1975, it came, changing forever both industries and later the fuel for the explosion of cable television.

Stage set for 'Art in the Park'

Although it's called "Art in the Park", there will be much more to delight Van Buren Township and area residents during the township's inaugural festival.

Treasurer Donna Hall said she was pleased to announce that the starring attraction at Van Buren's first "Art in the Park Festival" will be Jack Rainwater and the Midnight Riders.

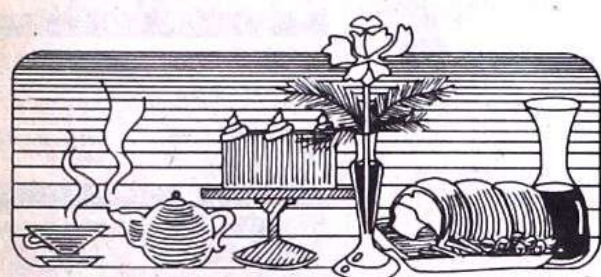

After meeting with Rainwater and his band members, Ms. Hall said that in the interest of community spirit, the entertainers would be pleased to donate their time and talent to "Art in the Park."

Jack Rainwater and the Midnight Riders are currently playing Wednesdays through Saturdays at T.M.'s Restaurant and Pizza Pub located on Main Street, downtown Belleville. On Friday and Saturday nights the band plays after hours until 4 a.m., while the customers enjoy coffee and breakfast.

"Van Buren Township is pleased to have them give of themselves to help make "Art in the Park" a success and provide our community with superb entertainment," Hall added. The township will host the festival on Sun., Sept. 4, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. for a great day of art, fun, food, drinks and music.

Starting over

Canton's Chiefs could be area grid power to contend with in '83

As the 1983 high school football season approaches, Plymouth Canton's coach, Richard Barr, is optimistic.

Barr's not aiming toward a championship yet, . . . not yet, anyway . . . as the Chiefs continue to rebuild.

Barr feels the team has decent first-teams on offense and defense, but most of the starters have not had a lot of playing time.

"We have potential talent, but (it's) unproven in game situations," Barr said. "If you get right down to it, we are rebuilding."

Canton's coming off a 4-5 season in 1982, and that was good enough for a third place finish in the five-team Western Lakes Athletic Association.

Barr said that 1982 WLAA champion and state playoff team Farmington Harrison looks to be a "notch above everybody" with the other four — Canton, Walled Lake Western, Northville, Livonia Churchill — battling it out for the other places. That's what happened last year and Barr expects the same in 1983.

He feels that Canton will probably finish 4-5 again this year. But, with some luck and no injuries, the Chiefs could finish at .500 or better.

The team just returned from camp, and Barr said he thought they got a lot accomplished. The entire junior varsity and varsity squads were there, a total of 92 kids.

"We got a lot accomplished, it was a learning experience. I'm pleased with everybody's progress and thought we got a lot out of it," he added.

Barr says that five kids started last year, at one time or another. These are: Rodney Williams, a senior fullback; Jim Burczyk, a senior tailback, Dave Szary, another senior, at slotback, Norm Gregor, who is being shifted from playing guard and tackle last season to center, and Paul Fletcher, offensive tackle. The trio of running backs played mostly on second-team offense, but played first-team defense positions.

Because the team's rebuilding, the starting positions aren't final yet, but these are the ones who have the best shots, according to Barr:

Offensive tackles will be Fletcher, who Barr says is probably one of their better players, and their biggest, at 6'3" and 225; and Eric Wines. Both played in 1982.

Offensive guards will likely be Doug Chilcoff at 5'9" and 180 pounds; and Wain Young, 5'8" and 165, but quick. They also saw some action last year.

Quarterback will be Jody Spitz, last year's varsity backup.

He's a senior and Barr says he's a real good option QB with adequate passing skills.

Tight end will likely be Jim Kaske, who played in 1982 and will also handle the kicking chores.

Split end is David Knapp, who played as JV quarterback in 1982 and will be third string QB on varsity. Barr said Knapp has good hands.

The running backs will probably include the trio of Williams, Szary and Burczyk. They will be backed up by Rodney Boyd, with 10 TDs on JV last year, who looks to be used much this year; and Matt Flower, probably one of the fastest backs. Barr says that Williams, Szary and Burczyk provide power, Boyd and Flower have speed.

Backup QB will be Tony Aiken, who throws and hands off well, according to Barr, and has much potential also.

Defensive tackle will be Fletcher, one of a few who play both sides of the line.

Ends will be Williams, 6'1" and 180 and Young.

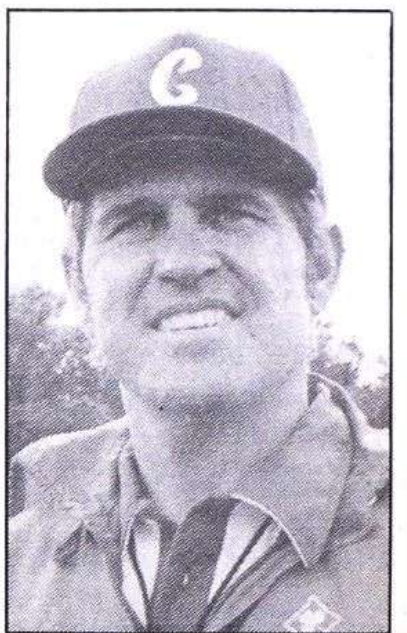

Outside linebackers are probably Burczyk, the only one with secondary experience last year, and Kaske.

Inside linebacker will be Szary, who played it last year.

Safety will be handled by either Spitz or Knapp.

Defensive backs will probably be Ray Hyder and Aiken, who is a sophomore.

Barr says the team lacks size and will have to try to beat some teams using finesse. They'll also have to rely on quickness and toughness. The defense, for example, will use the 6-5 formation mostly and throw in stunting and different looks to confuse the opponents' offense. At times, the defense will look like a six or five-man-front, with a 6-2 or 5-2 align-

Excellent year

Many high school and pro ball players get their starts from the "Grapefruit League" ranks and you may look for these 7 to 9 year olds to become "stars" of the future. The Wayne ball club is made up of Jeff Barret (seated first row, from left), Eric Peters, Matt Schwartz, Chris Richardson and John Estep; second row are Lenny Kubitski, Matt Richardson, Matt Barret, John Conway and Jimmy Markey; third row are Jack Bain, Jeff King, Brooks Murray and Tim Hadjak. From a pro

Former Red Wings' and presently Edmonton Oilers' star, Garry Unger, was in town to conduct a two-week hockey school at the Inkster Ice Arena. The school had a record 50 young skaters listening to the veteran hockey player's advice and suggestions. Classes will end this week. "We'll be back next year to conduct a similar instructional course," Unger said "I really enjoyed this and am looking forward to coaching when my pro career ends." Pictured above with Unger is Rich Worosz of Garden City.

Incredible catch

Belleville's Doug Mason probably made the catch of his life last week and became the envy of Detroit Tiger baseball fans.

Mason, sitting in left field during the Toronto-Detroit game on Aug. 28 had his binoculars focused on Lance Parrish in that now incredible 9th inning. Parrish, as we all know, walked . . . and eventually Chet Lemon came to the plate.

Lemon drilled a homer to give the Tigers their dramatic come-from-behind 4-2 victory and, as the ball sailed through the air and over the fence, Mason raised his right hand and caught it.

"I didn't believe it," said the owner of Douglas Carpets in Belleville. "But there it was — Lemon's home run ball. In my hand." Neither did Mrs. Glenda Mason, Doug's wife, his two children, Philip, age 8, and Sarah, age 4, nor friend Pat Publiski, believe what had happened.

Or the thousands of fans — many of whom left the stadium — believe what had happened.

Tiger fans definitely have 'pennant fever'.

And Mason had a moment of what can be an unbelievable Tiger season.

Inkster crowns tennis champs

Ann Arbor's Elnora Sipp turned back Inkster's Deanna Benko in two sets to capture the Inkster Parks and Recreation's Women's Singles' tennis title at the annual Open Tournament staged recently.

Miss Sipp had little trouble handling her foe in the finals as she mixed her powerful serves with excellent defense.

More than 50 area tennis players took part in the competitions held during 90 degree heat.

In the Men's Singles, Ray Cannaday of Flint needed three sets to stop Wyandotte's Dave Solano. Cannaday defeated Solano 6-1 in the opening match, then found himself struggling and dropped a 6-2 decision to his rival. He came back and narrowly won the third and crucial set, 7-6.

Tom Fisher of Plymouth and Jack Knowles of Ann Arbor teamed up to win the Men's Doubles as they defeated Inkster netters Oscie Cardwell and Rowan Childs 6-2 and 6-2.

In the Mixed Doubles, Gregory and Elnora Sipp of Ann Arbor earned a hard fought victory over Cecil White of Canton and Kathy Gunn of Livonia 6-3, 2-6, and 6-3.

Mike Arnold had to fight back for a first set loss to Inkster's Shawn Blanton to win the Boys 18 and Under championship. The Riverview netter dropped the first match 6-2, then rallied to win the second 6-2 and the final set by the identical score.

"We don't try to go long much, but we go for the high-percentage (short) passes," he said. "But, we will go long to keep people honest."

Knapp and Kaske will probably be the most-used receivers. Spitz will also throw to the backs coming out of the backfield.

A senior citizen's park. A festival. A community fund raiser. This is not volleyball, or after-school activities with the kids.

It is not just adult softball at Elmer Johnson Park.

It is part of the expanded role of the Romulus Department of Recreation. But few people are aware of it.

"They only understand what effects their lives. They don't understand the total picture."

Dennis Davidson, Recreation Department Director, is pin-pointing the "communication lag" of the public and the new role of his department.

What sparks his interest in the subject, to give a graphic example, is the completion of a new Senior Citizen's Park, located about 100 yards from the Recreation Department which supervised its establishment.

The work, clearing the underbrush from a 250-square area of trees, was done this summer by the Youth Corps.

It is a good illustration. If before no one could see the forest for the trees, now one can at least see the trees.

Davidson, recreation Director since December, 1979, and two other full-time staffers handle many different responsibilities throughout the year, supervising anywhere from 20 to 40 part-time employees.

And their role is now more in the direction of creating leisure-time activities for senior citizens and adults.

And that role is now financially sustained in some part by the "user", or participant.

The Department has a budget this year of about $325,000, of which about $45,000 comes from the people who use the services (program participants).

Therefore, 82 per cent of the money comes from the taxpayers.

Davidson attributes the new direction of the Department to the fiscal crisis of 1979 when the City was $900,000 in debt.

He took on his job that year and was told by Mayor William Oakley that the Recreation Department had to provide the necessary services to the people but at the minimal amount of cost.

For instance, the karate program was a free program. Within two years it became partially financed at $50 per year per student which helped pay the instructor's fee.

"We still provide a quality program," Davidson said, "but at a price cheaper than the private sector."

Other programs which began the user fee were adult softball which received about $10,000 in sponsor (bars, grocery stores, fees in 1979, which makes up half of the $20,000 of the program.

Today, adult softball is financed about 90% by sponsor fees.

"The participant kicks in money to all the programs, with the exception of some after-school programs," said Davidson.

"But the message we got across is that we cannot burden the taxpayers with the expense of all the programs," he added.

This is not unique to Romulus. The development is happening all over the nation. Recreation Departments in California, for the past 4 years, almost totally fund their recreation activities through user fees.

"In a way," said Davidson, "it's unfortunate that the government through the years could do so much for us but the money is no longer available."

"For example, the City of Inkster has closed down their arena. The City of Westland is now negotiating with somebody to use their arena, like Inkster."

"I guess what I like about it is the fact that it has made people more aware that you can no longer have something for nothing. Therefore we have to become more community-minded, pitch in, and the result is people will be united in the community."

Class 'C' softball champs

Area race drivers are setting pace at Flat Rock Speedway

Bob Fox won the 30-lap feature for the ARCA late models, using the outside groove to pass race leader Dave Kuhlman in stock car racing action Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway.

Fox, piloting the By-Rite Oil Thunderbird, waited until mid-race to make his move around a five-car freight train of Kuhlman, Perry Younce, Royce Cornett, Lance Olson and Rick Sheppard, who had been running nose-to-tail in 1st through fifth.

Fox crossed the finish line ahead of Kuhlman of Howell, Younce of Canton, Cornett of Toledo, Olson of Grosse Pointe and Sheppard of Mt. Clemens in that order. Bob Renz was 7th, Ray Barnard of Ypsilanti 8th, Keith Nowicki 9th and Pat Haywood 10th.

Kuhlman won the dash while John Juckette and Craig Meyers won preliminary heat events.

In the figure-8 division, Chuck Hall captured the 20-lap season championship feature race and locked up his 6th championship for points in ARCA figure-8 competition at Flat Rock. Hall, who set fast time, held off Ed Briggs of Belleville and Denny Pace of Canton at the finish.

Gary Earley of Newport finished 4th after challenging Hall several times for the race lead then spinning out, and Ray Gaddis of Romulus finished 5th. Ben Benedict of Richmond was 6th, Jack Dandy of Taylor 7th, Russ Champagne of Taylor 8th, Parker Wade of Riverview 9th and Jeff Barsen of Toledo 10th. Briggs was the four-car dash winner, with Ray Herrmann of Taylor winning one heat and Benedict the other. Earley captured the pursuit victory.

Commissioners resume WCGH debate

Allowing more time for discussion between the Wayne County Commission and the County Executive, say Commission officers, further action on the proposed County Hospital Ordinance has been postponed until Sept. 7.

The Commission voted 7-6 last week to put aside decision on the issue for the second time, rather than choosing or attempting to override the veto of the ordinance by County Executive William Lucas earlier this month.

Lucas vetoed the ordinance on claims that it violates the charter and subverts executive appointive power. He and the Commission disagree on provisions affecting over-all disposition of the hospital as well as appointments to the County Board of Institutions, the hospital governing body that oversees day-to-day affairs.

"The postponement gives us more time to talk among ourselves and with the other side; maybe we can still work something out and still devise an ordinance that everybody can live with comfortably," said William G. Suzore, Chairman of the Commission.

Said Kay Beard, Chairman of the Human Resources Committee which drafted the ordinance, "There are still some on the Commission who want to keep their options open. After all, negotiations are still underway on this."

Areas Beard mentioned that she said "could have great impact" include possible new arrangements with the University of Michigan which is the hospital teaching affiliate, discussions on possible state take-over.

and ongoing budget deliberations for the new fiscal year in which county employees would work under conditions of an impasse settlement instead of a labor contract agreement.

"It is the opinion of enough commissioners that the potential here is sufficient for more study," said Beard.

Also in their meeting last week the Commission approved three grant applications to the state Dept. of Natural Resources for projects funded by the Michigan Youth Corps for next summer.

Separately, the grants would provide:

- $576,450 for 360 youth to clean and collect debris from the middle branch of the Rouge River and Hines Park;

- Make available $37,638 for 19 youth to help the Environmental Health Division of the County Health Dept. to prepare reports on water contamination sites, determine exposure of birds to viruses with potential to spread encephalitis, and determine incidence of rat densities along with development of public information on rat control measures;

- Use $118,130 for nature trail development in the William P. Holliday Wildlife Preserve and Hines Park beautification.

Ross White of New Boston raised a pretty big pig that didn't get to market but was auctioned off to Tom Page (at right) owner of Farmers Grain and Feed also in New Boston. Ross's effort earned a Blue Ribbon at the recently completed 4-H Fair held in Belleville.

Ed Rush, former Romulus city councilman (at left) and owner of Rush's Florist in Romulus was in the purchasing mood and managed to snap up this Reserve Grand Champion lamb raised by Canton Township's Scott Fitzgerald. The auction climaxed the recent 4-H Fair.

Reaching your audience is like SEARCHING FOR A NEEDLE IN A HAYSTACK...

...Especially when your potential customers are scattered all over the county! It would take a lifetime to deal directly with each and every individual you wish to reach. Advertising in the newspaper lets you get your message across to our entire circulation... (each reader a potential customer)...and that stacks up to more sales potential for you! The cost is minimal...especially when you compare it to any other form of advertising...and the results can be maximal! So stop looking under haystacks when you can make hay while the sun shines...
